

A Song That Refuses to Sit Still

Alex Sentavo Announces Live Release of “Carry On” — Out May 15 New York, NY — Alex Sentavo is choosing something louder... something before his new album. He releases a live version of his emotionally charged anthem “Carry On”, captured in a moment.

Manhattan, New York May 8, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - The Moment Behind the Music

Originally introduced as a reflective track in Alex’s evolving journey, “Carry On” has grown into something far more powerful in its live form. The new release captures a defining concert moment where Alex, mid-performance, breaks through the polished surface and lets the audience see the weight he’s been carrying.

No edits. No filters. Just breath, voice, and truth.

Backed by swelling instrumentation and a crowd that becomes part choir, part witness, the live version transforms the song into a shared experience of endurance and release. NewViewInc@proton.me

A Statement from Alex Sentavo

“There are nights when you sing a song...
and then there are nights when the song sings you.
'Carry On' became something I couldn't control anymore.
I didn't want to fix it—I wanted to feel it.
This version... this is what it sounds like when you keep going, anyway or in spite of.”

Why This Release Matters

“Carry On (Live)” arrives as more than just a track—it's a timestamp in Alex's spiritual and emotional evolution. Known for weaving identity, faith, and vulnerability into his artistry, Sentavo leans fully into the rawness here.

You don't just hear the song.
You stand inside it.

This release also sets the tone for upcoming live experiences tied to Lost in the Dark: My Life (Live), where music, testimony, and storytelling collide under one roof. Originally part of the novel: Lost in the Dark - The Immaculate Seduction, this song has taken on a life of its own.

About Alex Sentavo

Alex Sentavo is a genre-blending vocalist and storyteller whose work explores identity, redemption, and the tension between darkness and light. Rising from the underground NYC scene with The Selectives, Alex has built a reputation for performances that feel less like concerts and more like encounters.

Final Note

Some songs are written in studios.
Others are written in survival.

“Carry On (Live)” is the sound of choosing not to stop.
