Leading Advanced Cardiac Care Through Clinical Excellence, Strategic Leadership, and Patient-Centered Outcomes

Detroit, Michigan Apr 29, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Donald Berg, MBA, MSF, BSN, RN, is an accomplished healthcare leader and clinical manager specializing in cardiovascular critical care and interventional cardiology. Currently serving as the Clinical Manager of the Cardiac Catheterization Lab at Corewell Health Dearborn Hospital, Donald is recognized for his ability to integrate clinical expertise with business acumen to deliver high-quality, efficient, and patient-centered cardiac care in complex hospital environments.

In his current role, Donald oversees the daily operations of a high-acuity Cath Lab, ensuring the safe and efficient delivery of advanced cardiac procedures. His responsibilities include clinical oversight, staff leadership, budgeting, and regulatory compliance, all while coordinating multidisciplinary teams of nurses, technologists, and physicians. He plays a central role in managing interventional and electrophysiology procedures such as stent placement, balloon angioplasty, cardiac ablations, and device implantation. Additionally, he leads the implementation and oversight of advanced cardiac support technologies, including intra-aortic balloon pumps (IABP) and Impella devices, ensuring optimal patient outcomes in critical situations.

Donald's educational background reflects his commitment to both clinical excellence and leadership development. He earned his Bachelor of Science in Nursing from the University of Detroit Mercy, graduating Cum Laude. He later pursued dual graduate degrees—a Master of Business Administration and a Master of Science in Finance—from Walsh College of Business and Accounting. This unique combination of healthcare and financial expertise enables him to approach clinical operations with a strategic and data-driven mindset. He is a licensed Registered Nurse in the state of Michigan and holds certifications in Advanced Cardiovascular Life Support (ACLS) and Basic Life Support (BLS).

Before stepping into his current leadership role, Donald built a strong clinical foundation through extensive experience in critical care. At William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak and Harper Hospital within the Detroit Medical Center, he served as a Charge Nurse in the Surgical ICU and Cardiothoracic ICU units. In these high-pressure environments, he cared for post-operative cardiac, transplant, and trauma patients requiring advanced life support interventions. His leadership extended beyond bedside care, as he played an active role in staff training, clinical coordination, and fostering collaboration across multidisciplinary teams in Level One Trauma and tertiary care settings.

Donald also gained valuable experience as a Cardiac Cath Lab Nurse at Henry Ford Hospital in Rochester, Michigan, where he functioned in a charge nurse capacity. There, he managed daily scheduling, workflow coordination, and patient care delivery for a high-volume procedural unit, further strengthening his operational leadership skills.

In addition to his clinical and hospital-based leadership, Donald has experience in healthcare administration and utilization management. As a Senior Prior Authorization Nurse and Team Lead at Meridian, he supervised a large team responsible for reviewing hundreds of complex medical authorization cases daily. These included highly specialized procedures such as organ transplants, genetic testing, and left ventricular assist device (LVAD) placements. This role expanded his understanding of healthcare systems, payer processes, and the importance of balancing clinical necessity with regulatory and financial considerations.

Donald attributes his professional drive to a deep commitment to patient care. "I find the greatest satisfaction in serving and caring for the sick and vulnerable," he shares. "Being able to help others through compassion, hands-on care, and patient-centered attention is what drives me every day in my work."

Beyond his professional responsibilities, Donald is dedicated to giving back to the community. He volunteers as a nurse at Trinity Health Family Clinic, providing essential care to underserved populations in Macomb County and reinforcing his commitment to equitable healthcare access.

With a career defined by clinical excellence, leadership, and service, Donald Berg continues to play a vital role in advancing cardiovascular care—improving patient outcomes while leading teams with integrity, precision, and compassion.
