

America's Best In Medicine: Kevin Chiang, M.D., M.Ed., FAAP, Pediatric Sports Medicine Physician At Scottish Rite

Frisco-Based Physician Combines Clinical Expertise, Education, and Collaborative Care to Help Young Athletes Recover, Prevent Injuries, and Excel in Sports

Frisco, Texas Apr 20, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Kevin Chiang, M.D., M.Ed., FAAP, is a dedicated pediatric sports medicine physician at the Scottish Rite for Children Orthopedic and Sports Medicine Center in Frisco, Texas, where he provides expert care for children and adolescent athletes. Collaborating with a multidisciplinary team of non-operative sports medicine physicians, orthopedic surgeons, physical and occupational therapists, athletic trainers, and movement science specialists, Dr. Chiang develops comprehensive, patient-centered care plans designed to help young athletes return to their sports safely, efficiently, and with confidence.

With a strong clinical and academic foundation, Dr. Chiang brings extensive experience in athlete care across all levels of competition. His sports medicine fellowship training involved serving as a team physician at both the collegiate level for Case Western Reserve University and high school level for University School, as well as providing medical coverage for the Cleveland Browns (NFL), Cleveland Monsters (AHL), Cleveland Marathon, Pan-American Masters Games, and numerous other regional and national sporting events

“Dr. Chiang’s commitment to pediatric sports medicine, education, and athlete safety aligns perfectly with our mission,” said a representative from Scottish Rite for Children. “His multidisciplinary expertise and passion for teaching will greatly benefit our patients and trainees.”

In addition to his clinical work, Dr. Chiang is an accomplished educator and researcher. He has taught medical trainees in the clinical setting, delivered numerous lectures on sports medicine and orthopedic-related topics, and developed medical education curricula. He is actively involved in several professional organizations, including the American Academy of Pediatrics, American Medical Society for Sports Medicine, and Pediatric Research in Sports Medicine Society.

Dr. Chiang’s achievements have been recognized nationally, including being named among “America’s Best in Medicine” in 2025. He also serves in leadership roles within professional societies and contributes to advancing pediatric sports medicine education and research.

At Scottish Rite for Children, Dr. Chiang focuses on delivering comprehensive, patient-centered care to young athletes while continuing to mentor the next generation of physicians.
