

Learning, Joy, and Community: How Chabad of Sunny Isles Beach Engages Young Minds

Miami, Florida Apr 16, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - The energy of Jewish life and education continues to grow in Sunny Isles Beach, thanks to the ongoing efforts of Rabbi Yisrael and Toby Baron of “Chabad Lubavitch of Sunny Isles Beach.” One of the most anticipated upcoming programs is their Shavuot Children’s Story & Cookie Decorating event, an engaging and hands-on experience that brings together fun, creativity, and meaningful Jewish learning.

Set to take place at the Sunny Isles Beach Public Library, this special pre-Shavuot program is designed to give children a joyful and memorable connection to the holiday. Through interactive storytelling and themed cookie decorating, children are not just participating in an activity, they are experiencing Jewish traditions in a way that is exciting, accessible, and meaningful. Programs like this have become a hallmark of what “Chabad Lubavitch of Sunny Isles Beach” offers, education that comes alive.

Under the leadership of Rabbi Yisrael and Toby Baron, the organization has developed a reputation for creating dynamic and engaging children’s programming that resonates deeply with families throughout the city. Each event is thoughtfully planned to combine fun with purpose, ensuring that children walk away not only smiling, but also enriched with knowledge and pride in their Jewish identity.

The monthly Story and Craft program, hosted at the library, has become a standout success. Children eagerly look forward to each session, where they listen to captivating stories and take part in creative projects that reinforce Jewish themes and values. The excitement is clear, not only do the children have a great time, but they keep coming back again and again, often bringing friends along with them. With every program, attendance continues to grow, a clear reflection of the impact these events are having.

This growth is not limited to Sunny Isles Beach alone. Increasingly, families from nearby communities are making the effort to attend these programs, drawn by the warmth, quality, and energy that Rabbi Yisrael and Toby Baron bring to every initiative. What started as local programming has evolved into a regional draw, highlighting the strong reputation that “Chabad Lubavitch of Sunny Isles Beach” has built.

Beyond special events, the Barons are deeply committed to ongoing educational initiatives throughout the city. Their Hebrew Club at Norman S. Edelcup Sunny Isles Beach K-8 introduces school children to the Hebrew language and Jewish culture in an engaging and approachable way. These programs provide children with tools and confidence, helping them connect to their heritage in a meaningful and lasting manner.

At the heart of it all is a consistent focus on creating a welcoming and vibrant environment for families. Whether through holiday events, educational programs, or community gatherings, Rabbi Yisrael and Toby Baron ensure that every child feels included, valued, and excited to participate. The sense of belonging that children experience keeps them engaged and eager for more.

The upcoming Shavuot Children’s Story & Cookie Decorating event is yet another example of how “Chabad Lubavitch of Sunny Isles Beach” continues to raise the bar. It’s not just an event, it’s part of a larger movement of education, connection, and community building that is clearly thriving. As more children attend each program, and as participation continues to expand beyond city limits, one thing is certain, the future of Jewish education in Sunny Isles Beach is bright, vibrant, and growing stronger with every event.

Families looking for meaningful, fun, and enriching experiences for their children don’t have to look far. Thanks to the dedication and vision of Rabbi Yisrael and Toby Baron, these opportunities are right here, and more families are discovering them every day.
