

Mapping the Global Jugular: New Critical Review Examines the Interconnected Thrillers of Garrison West and Liam Conrad

An analysis of the "Orpheus Protocols" and the shifting landscape of modern geopolitical warfare across Dex System and Am I Am publications.

New York City, New York Apr 27, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - # LITERARY REVIEW DISPATCH

A new comprehensive critical review has been released today, synthesizing a series of high-stakes publications that define the literary landscape of 2024-2026. The review focuses on Choke Point by Garrison West, a novel that has become the cornerstone for understanding the speculative "Orpheus Protocols"—a weaponized neurological hijack that threatens the core of global security.

The analysis connects the kinetic fiction of West and Jack Wilson with the strategic non-fiction of Liam Conrad. By examining works such as From Khartoum to Kharg Island and The War That Rewrote the Middle East, the review highlights a terrifying trend: the shift from conventional territorial disputes to a "Long War for the Global Jugular," where the primary targets are physical trade bottlenecks and the human vestibular system itself.

The review concludes that these authors, through both fiction and tactical analysis, are warning of a future where "dead zones" and "analog tradecraft" are the only refuges left in a world controlled by planetary-scale surveillance and neurological warfare. The synthesis of the Dex System and Am I Am catalogs offers a grim yet essential roadmap for the coming decade.
