

No More Waiting Weeks: Same-Day Crowns Redefine Dental Care in Roseville

Nu Smile Roseville Dental uses advanced CEREC technology to design and place permanent crowns the same day.

Roseville, California May 1, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - For decades, getting a dental crown meant multiple appointments, temporary restorations, and weeks of waiting. Today, that experience is rapidly changing. Advances in digital dentistry—particularly CEREC same-day crown technology—are transforming how patients restore damaged teeth, offering a faster, more convenient solution.

At Nu Smile Roseville Dental, patients can now receive custom-designed, permanent crowns in a single visit. This modern approach eliminates the need for traditional impressions, temporary crowns, and follow-up appointments, making dental care more efficient without compromising quality.

“Same-day crown technology allows us to deliver precise, high-quality restorations in a fraction of the time,” says Dr. Arthur Kwan. “By combining digital accuracy with advanced materials, we’re able to create a more comfortable and predictable experience for our patients.”

A Modern Approach to a Traditional Procedure

Traditional crowns typically require at least two visits. During the first appointment, the tooth is prepared and an impression is taken using putty-like materials. A temporary crown is placed while a dental lab fabricates the permanent restoration, which may take several weeks.

CEREC technology replaces this process with a streamlined digital workflow. Using a high-resolution 3D scanner, dentists capture precise images of the tooth without messy impression trays. Advanced software is then used to design a custom crown that fits seamlessly with the patient's bite and natural smile.

An in-office milling machine fabricates the crown from durable ceramic material while the patient waits. Once completed, the crown is bonded the same day—restoring both function and aesthetics immediately.

Why Patients Are Choosing Same-Day Crowns

The shift toward single-visit dentistry reflects the needs of today's patients, who value both efficiency and comfort. Same-day crowns offer several key advantages:

- One appointment: Treatment is completed in just a few hours
- No temporary crowns: Eliminates the discomfort and inconvenience of temporaries
- Digital impressions: A more comfortable alternative to traditional molds
- Natural aesthetics: Tooth-colored ceramic blends seamlessly with surrounding teeth
- Durability: Designed to be as strong and long-lasting as lab-made crowns

Patients who have experienced both traditional and same-day crowns often prefer the speed and simplicity of the CEREC process.

Designed for Convenience Without Compromise

Same-day crowns are suitable for a wide range of restorative needs, including repairing cracked teeth, restoring teeth after root canals, and strengthening weakened structures. While certain complex cases may still require laboratory fabrication, most patients can benefit from this advanced approach.

With nearly two decades of experience using CEREC technology, Dr. Arthur Kwan has also trained other dental professionals in digital dentistry techniques. His experience allows patients to receive care that is not only efficient, but also highly precise and personalized.

The Future of Restorative Dentistry

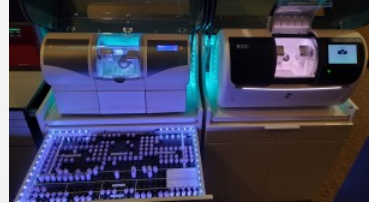

As digital dentistry continues to evolve, same-day solutions are becoming the new standard for many common procedures. By reducing treatment time and improving patient comfort, technologies like CEREC are helping redefine expectations in dental care.

“At the end of the day, it's about making dentistry easier for patients,” adds Dr. Kwan. “When we can restore a smile in one visit while maintaining quality and precision, it changes the entire experience.”

Patients in Roseville and surrounding communities seeking a faster, more convenient solution for dental crowns are encouraged to explore same-day options and learn how modern technology is reshaping restorative care.
