

Sensor Noise releases "Think on the Green Grass"

Los Angeles, California Apr 3, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Emerging indie group, Sensor Noise, released their debut album "Think on the Green Grass" on March 28th.

Vocalist, Allisyn Snyder recounts, "When we were kids, my little sister jumbled the sayings, 'think on the bright side,' and 'the grass is always greener on the other side.' Her advice to 'Think on the Green Grass' has resonated throughout the years, and with songs like California Sober, Acid Friends, and Burn Out, the title fits the project on many levels."

Sensor Noise was founded by Allisyn and Dylan Snyder, former child stars who met during their time on the Disney Channel, along with Steve Arm, film composer and member of the indie rock collective Pistol for Ringo. Trained for a lifetime in the entertainment industry, they use their backgrounds in film to create innovative visuals to accompany their assortments.

On Saturday, April 11th, the group will be dropping a music video for Fire In The Sky which was filmed across many decades and many miles. Dylan Snyder, bassist for the band and cinematographer, shares, "In November of 2025, we traveled across the country through 19 states. I brought our Blackmagic Ursa Mini Pro, and Allisyn brought her hair paint and glitter tears. We filmed in mountain ranges and abandoned buildings, capturing unusual sights and wildlife. Allisyn has an elaborate backstory worked out for the characters in the band and a plan to build the lore throughout our videos, which we'll be stitching together into a film." The video will also feature clips compiled by Steve Arm two decades ago that he projected during Pistol for Ringo shows.

Following Fire In The Sky, Sensor Noise will be releasing a video for Grounded on 4/20, a date chosen for its significance in the stoner community. The song opens with lyrics, "Coming down as I'm taking off, but there's no smoking in the lavatory." According to Allisyn Snyder, she wrote the lyrics while on a plane returning from a weekend in Las Vegas, celebrating her mother's 50th birthday. Snyder's mother, Anji Arm, features both on the track and in the music video as a flight attendant with pink hair who invites the listeners to enjoy the trip.
