

Spartan Plumbing Doubles Monthly Revenue in Three Months With Help From Contracting Monopoly

Spartan Plumbing, an Arvada and Denver area plumbing contractor, credits Contracting Monopoly's 5 Placement Method for taking the business from $150,000 to $300,000 in monthly revenue in under 90 days.

Arvada, Colorado Apr 27, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Spartan Plumbing, a plumbing contractor serving Arvada and the greater Denver area, is announcing a significant growth milestone: the company doubled its monthly revenue from $150,000 to $300,000 in approximately three months, a result the company attributes directly to its partnership with Contracting Monopoly, a national contractor marketing agency led by Owner and CEO Joshua Osborne and COO and Partner Emmanuel Bonsu.

The growth came after Spartan Plumbing engaged Contracting Monopoly to implement the 5 Placement

Method, a marketing framework built around placing a contractor's business in five distinct digital locations simultaneously: Google Ads for top-of-page paid placement, the Google Maps 3-Pack for mobile visibility, Google's AI Overview answer box, organic search rankings across every service and city combination, and answer engines including Siri, ChatGPT, and Alexa. Rather than relying on a single channel, a contractor who owns all five placements at once dominates their local market in a way that a competitor present in only one or two locations simply cannot match.

"Before working with Contracting Monopoly we were doing solid work but we were not getting found the way we should have been," said Sammy Carr, Owner of Spartan Plumbing. "Joshua and Emmanuel came in with a clear plan and executed it fast. Within three months we had doubled our monthly revenue and the phone was ringing consistently from multiple directions. That kind of result speaks for itself."

The 5 Placement Method addresses one of the most common challenges facing home service contractors in competitive markets: visibility. A homeowner searching for a plumber in Arvada or Denver encounters multiple touchpoints before making a call, from a Google search on a desktop to a voice query on a smartphone to a Maps search on a mobile device. Contracting Monopoly's approach ensures that Spartan Plumbing appears across all of those touchpoints rather than winning in one area while remaining invisible in others.

Google Ads put Spartan Plumbing at the top of search results pages before a homeowner ever scrolls, capturing high-intent leads at the moment they are ready to call. The Maps 3-Pack placement positioned the company in the most-clicked section of local search results on mobile devices. The AI Overview placement engineered Spartan Plumbing's content to be cited by Google's AI answer box, a visibility channel that most contractors have not yet recognized as a competitive battleground. Organic search rankings built long-term authority across every service and city combination relevant to the business. Answer engine optimization ensured that when a homeowner asks Siri, ChatGPT, or Alexa for a plumber in the Denver area, Spartan Plumbing's name comes up.

"The 5 Placement Method is built around owning the market, not renting a spot in it," said Joshua Osborne, Owner and CEO of Contracting Monopoly. "When a contractor is showing up in all five placements at once, they become the obvious choice regardless of where a homeowner starts their search. That is what we built for Spartan Plumbing and the results reflect it." Learn more at contractormonopoly.com.

Emmanuel Bonsu, COO and Partner at Contracting Monopoly, emphasized that the speed of the results was not accidental. "Three months is a fast timeline for this kind of revenue growth, but it is what happens when all five placements are activated and optimized together rather than rolled out one at a time. The compounding effect of full market presence accelerates everything." More information about the 5 Placement Method is available at contractormonopoly.com.
