Group®

Miami, Florida Apr 28, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Filtration Group Indoor Air Quality (FG IAQ) is the largest U.S. based manufacturer and provider of advanced air filtration solutions designed to improve indoor air quality, HVAC system performance, and occupant health across commercial, industrial, healthcare, government, and institutional facilities. With roots dating back to 1946, Filtration Group IAQ has grown into one of the largest and most technologically advanced filtration manufacturers in the United States and Canada, operating a broad network of manufacturing, engineering, and distribution facilities across North America.

The company specializes in a comprehensive portfolio of HVAC filtration products including pleated air filters, V-bank and mini-pleat filters, pocket filters, HEPA and ULPA filtration systems, cleanroom filters, and gas-phase/molecular filtration solutions. Their products are engineered to help facilities reduce airborne contaminants, improve energy efficiency, extend HVAC equipment life, and create healthier indoor environments for building occupants.

Filtration Group IAQ serves a wide range of industries including hospitals, pharmaceutical facilities, commercial real estate, schools and universities, government buildings, data centers, and manufacturing facilities—providing both standard and custom-engineered filtration solutions to meet complex air quality requirements. In addition to supplying filtration products, the company offers technical consulting, site audits, total cost of ownership analysis, and engineered filtration programs to optimize air quality performance while reducing operational costs.

As part of the larger Filtration Group family under Madison Industries, Filtration Group IAQ is committed to delivering innovative filtration technologies that help make buildings safer, healthier, and more productive by improving the quality of the air people breathe every day.
