

CMOLDS Launches UX Audit Service for Underperforming Mobile Apps

Helping Businesses Identify UX Gaps and Improve App Performance Through Data-Driven Design Insights

San Francisco, California May 8, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - CMOLDS, a global digital solutions provider, has officially announced the launch of its new UX Audit Service designed to help businesses identify and resolve performance and user experience issues in underperforming mobile applications.

The new service focuses on analyzing user behavior, interface structure, navigation flow, and overall app usability to uncover friction points that negatively impact engagement and retention. By combining data-driven insights with design expertise, CMOLDS aims to help businesses improve app performance and deliver smoother, more intuitive digital experiences.

In today's highly competitive mobile market, user experience has become a critical factor for success. CMOLDS is addressing this need by offering structured UX audits tailored for businesses operating in diverse industries, from startups to enterprise-level platforms.

The company, recognized as a trusted android app development agency, is also expanding its service offerings to support businesses in optimizing existing applications rather than only building new ones. This approach allows brands to enhance their current digital products and maximize return on investment.

CMOLDS has also strengthened its expertise in cross platform app development company solutions, enabling businesses to maintain consistent performance and user experience across multiple devices and operating systems. In addition, its ios app development services are designed to ensure Apple users receive seamless, high-quality application experiences aligned with modern design standards.

“Our goal with the UX Audit Service is to help businesses understand why their apps are underperforming and what exactly needs improvement,” said a CMOLDS spokesperson. “We focus on practical insights that lead to measurable enhancements in user engagement and overall app success.”

With this new service, CMOLDS continues to position itself as a forward-thinking technology partner committed to improving digital products through innovation, usability, and performance optimization.

About CMOLDS

CMOLDS is a global software and mobile application development company specializing in mobile apps, UX/UI design, game development, and digital transformation solutions. The company delivers scalable and user-focused technology services to clients worldwide.

Media Contact

CMOLDS

*****@cmolds.com

<https://www.cmolds.com/>

Source : CMOLDS

See on IssueWire