

Dex System Expands Digital Footprint with New Catalog, Audiobook Library & AI Publishing Discourse

Independent press imprint CipherGrid.net announces a multi-platform content expansion spanning fiction, audiobooks, video, and AI infrastructure policy

New York City, New York May 28, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - AM I AM Publishing today announced a major expansion of its Dex System imprint through CipherGrid.net, consolidating a growing catalog of fiction, audiobook content, author video, and editorial commentary under a single digital publishing destination. The announcement marks a significant milestone for the independent press, which distributes titles through Smashwords and the broader Draft2Digital ecosystem.

CipherGrid.net now serves as the primary public-facing hub for the Dex System imprint, offering readers direct access to Amazon book listings, streaming audiobooks, original author video content featuring narrator and series voice Liam Conrad, and a newly launched editorial blog addressing the rapidly evolving landscape of AI governance and publishing infrastructure.

“The catalog is no longer just a list of titles — it’s an argument. Dex System publishes at the place where geopolitics, technology, and narrative sovereignty collide.”

Readers can browse the full Dex System library — including Amazon Hub book pages, distributor profiles, and series overviews — through the links below. The imprint spans geopolitical thrillers, speculative fiction, and infrastructure-themed narrative nonfiction.

AI Infrastructure & The New Catalog Blog

Central to Dex System’s current expansion is the launch of its New Catalog blog — a digital editorial platform addressing the policy, technology, and cultural dimensions shaping contemporary publishing and content ecosystems. The blog tackles subjects including AI governance frameworks, urban de-indexing, and complex geopolitical narratives that conventional publishing has been slow to engage.

The launch has already drawn attention from digital media outlets. The New Catalog blog is featured prominently on 5StarsDiscovery.com, which covered the imprint’s focus on AI governance, urban de-indexing, and the geopolitical dimensions of narrative infrastructure — editorial territory few independent presses are willing to occupy.

The New Catalog positions Dex System not merely as a publisher of fiction, but as an active voice in the debate over how algorithmic systems, content policy, and platform architecture are reshaping what stories get told — and who gets to tell them.

Audiobook & Video Expansion

Alongside editorial content, CipherGrid.net now hosts a growing audiobook library drawn from the Dex System catalog, available at ciphergrid.net/new-blog/audio. The audio offerings complement a video series featuring Liam Conrad, whose on-camera presence anchors the imprint's author brand identity and provides readers with direct access to the voices behind the work. Conrad's video content is available at ciphergrid.net/new-blog/video.
