

MAIVEST × FYNOR India Elite Leaders Summit to Launch in Kuala Lumpur

Focusing on the Global Digital Financial Ecosystem and Exploring the Future of AI & Web3

Bombuflat, Andaman and Nicobar Islands May 27, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - As the global digital finance industry continues evolving toward intelligence, globalization, and ecosystem-driven development, cross-border resource integration and ecosystem collaboration are becoming increasingly important across international markets.

Recently, MAIVEST Investment and FYNOR Global jointly announced that the “India Elite Leaders Summit” and Asia Core Ecosystem Private Gathering will officially be held in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, from July 3 to July 6, 2026.

According to the organizers, the summit will bring together outstanding team leaders from the Indian market, core strategic partners, and international resource representatives to engage in in-depth discussions surrounding global digital finance development, AI-powered trading ecosystems, Web3 market trends, RWA (Real World Assets) integration, and international ecosystem cooperation.

As one of the key co-organizers of the event, FYNOR Global has been accelerating its global ecosystem expansion strategy while actively transforming from a traditional digital asset trading platform into a comprehensive global digital financial ecosystem.

The platform stated that the future of digital finance will no longer focus solely on trading services but increasingly on ecosystem-building capabilities, global community development, AI-driven financial infrastructure, and long-term value creation systems.

At present, FYNOR is continuously advancing its ecosystem development around:

- AI intelligent trading systems
- Quantitative copy trading ecosystems
- Global community networks
- RWA asset ecosystems
- DAO governance systems
- Platform token economic models

Meanwhile, FYNOR's global platform token launch plan is also progressing steadily.

According to the platform roadmap:

September 2026 — The FYNOR Global Token Launch Conference will officially begin.

October 2026 — The platform token circulation ecosystem is scheduled to officially launch.

This marks FYNOR's transition from a traditional trading platform toward a more comprehensive global digital financial ecosystem network.

The Kuala Lumpur summit is also regarded as a key milestone within FYNOR's broader global strategic expansion.

Beyond the high-level business summit itself, the event will also feature:

- Exclusive gala dinners
- International resource networking
- Business and city experience activities
- Private leadership meetings

creating a premium private networking experience that combines international vision with high-value strategic resources.

It is reported that the summit venue is located within Kuala Lumpur's core business district. During the event, participants will also enjoy city tours, executive networking sessions, and international business resource connections, offering guests a deeper and more immersive global communication experience.

MAIVEST and FYNOR stated that the summit aims to further strengthen ecosystem collaboration and strategic resource integration between global markets while deepening the connection between Asian markets and the international digital finance landscape.

As emerging sectors such as AI, Web3, and RWA continue to develop rapidly, the global digital finance industry is entering a new era of transformation.

International cooperation centered around "global ecosystems, AI finance, and long-term value systems" is also becoming one of the most important trends shaping the future of the industry.
