San Francisco, California May 21, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - A compelling new voice in contemporary Christian theology, Dr. Anthony J. Johnson Jr. announces the release of his latest book, Faith Alone is Essential for Salvation: A Transformative Truth, a thought-provoking exploration of one of Christianity's most enduring and debated doctrines—the role of faith and works in salvation.

In this timely and deeply researched work, Dr. Johnson presents a bold defense of sola fide, the belief that salvation is received through faith alone. Drawing from Scripture, church history, and theological scholarship, the book examines key biblical passages such as Ephesians 2:8–9 and Romans 3:28, emphasizing the centrality of faith in the process of justification.

“Faith Alone Is Essential for Salvation is not just a theological argument. It is an invitation,” says Dr. Johnson. “It is a call for believers from all denominations to engage in meaningful, Scripture-centered dialogue about the nature of salvation and the role of grace.”

The book also traces the historical evolution of baptismal theology and explores the distinctions among Protestant, Catholic, and Orthodox perspectives. While it challenges traditional sacramental views, it also seeks to foster unity among believers by encouraging open, respectful conversations grounded in biblical truth.

Designed for pastors, theologians, seminary students, and anyone seeking clarity on the relationship between faith, works, and grace, this work offers both scholarly depth and accessible insight. Readers are encouraged to reflect on how authentic faith leads to transformation, where works are not a requirement for salvation but a natural expression of it.

In addition to his writing and ministry, Dr. Johnson shares faith-based teachings, leadership insights, and professional guidance through his official YouTube channel, Anthony Johnson Consultant LLC, where viewers can engage with his message beyond the written page.
