

Raeda Ali Cherkaoui, Delivers Compassionate Patient-Centered Care While Pursuing a Future in Neonatal Nursing

Registered Nurse at Corewell Health Combines Clinical Excellence, Advocacy, and Wellness Education to Support Patients and Families

Royal Oak, Michigan May 13, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Raeda Ali Cherkaoui is a dedicated Registered Nurse at Corewell Health in Royal Oak, Michigan, where she provides compassionate inpatient care to patients facing a wide range of medical conditions. With a strong commitment to patient advocacy, holistic care, and clinical excellence, Raeda is quickly establishing herself as a rising healthcare professional whose passion for helping others extends beyond the bedside into education, wellness, and future neonatal care.

In her role at Corewell Health, Raeda cares for patients experiencing complex medical challenges, including anemia requiring blood transfusions and complications related to PEG tube management. She works closely with interdisciplinary healthcare teams to ensure patients receive attentive, individualized treatment while supporting their emotional and physical well-being throughout recovery.

“What I love most about being a nurse is the way patients express their relief and joy when they’re finally getting the answers they want or the care that’s getting them closer to home,” says Raeda. “I feel like when a patient is finally about to go home or is about to get answers that they’ve been struggling to find for a while, seeing how happy they are at that moment is such a big part of what makes this work meaningful to me. That feeling of knowing I’ve been part of helping them reach that point of relief is incredibly rewarding.”

Raeda graduated from Madonna University’s accelerated Bachelor of Science in Nursing program in May 2025 and is currently completing her graduate nurse transition courses as she continues to strengthen her clinical expertise and professional development. Prior to entering nursing, she earned a Bachelor’s Degree in English Honors from Wayne State University, a background that reflects her lifelong passion for reading, writing, communication, and patient education.

Her path into nursing began with an early interest in healthcare, but it was through hands-on academic and clinical experiences that her passion for patient care truly deepened. Raeda credits teamwork and collaboration with colleagues as an essential part of providing quality care and helping patients achieve improved outcomes. She is particularly passionate about patient advocacy and ensuring individuals feel supported, informed, and empowered during vulnerable moments in their healthcare journey.

Looking ahead, Raeda hopes to transition into neonatal intensive care nursing, where she plans to combine her clinical knowledge with emotional support and education for families navigating neonatal care. She is especially drawn to the opportunity to care for newborns while helping reassure and guide parents during some of the most delicate moments of their lives.

Outside of clinical practice, Raeda is also an author and wellness educator. Writing under the alias Megan May, she published the e-book Sleep Reset in 4 Weeks on the WHOP platform. The book offers natural solutions and practical daily-life strategies designed to help professionals and individuals improve sleep quality without relying on medication. Inspired by her mother’s personal struggles with sleep, the project reflects Raeda’s broader commitment to preventative wellness education and accessible health resources.

By integrating nursing research into her writing projects, Raeda continues to merge her strengths in healthcare and communication to positively impact others both inside and outside the hospital setting.

With a strong foundation in nursing, patient-centered care, and health education, Raeda Ali Cherkaoui remains committed to lifelong learning, professional growth, and making a meaningful difference in the lives of patients and families throughout every stage of care.
