The relocation is part of RMCHCS's ongoing efforts to provide better, more convenient, and high-quality specialty care services. The new location is expected to offer improved access for patients and support more efficient healthcare delivery.

Red Rock Specialty Clinic provides important medical services, including specialty consultations and patient care for individuals needing advanced medical attention. By moving to a new site, RMCHCS aims to make it easier for patients to reach the clinic and receive timely treatment.

The clinic will continue serving patients during the transition process, and RMCHCS will provide updates to ensure a smooth move with minimal disruption to care. Patients are encouraged to follow official announcements for future location details and service updates.

RMCHCS remains dedicated to strengthening healthcare services across northwestern New Mexico through continuous improvement of its facilities, clinics, and patient care systems.
