

Turning Space into Sustainability: Wynn Acquisitions Joins Levo International for Hydroponic Build

Hartford, Connecticut May 7, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Wynn Acquisitions, Inc. recently partnered with Levo International to support a strategic community initiative focused on increasing access to fresh produce in the North Hartford area. The project involved repurposing an underutilized parking lot into a functional hydroponic farming site, reinforcing a shared commitment to sustainable and innovative food production.

As part of the initiative, employees from Wynn Acquisitions, Inc. contributed to the construction of hydroponic infrastructure through hands-on technical work. Responsibilities included the cutting and sanding of PVC piping, ensuring proper preparation of materials to serve as planting channels within the system. These foundational efforts directly support the implementation of efficient, soil-free agricultural methods designed to deliver fresh produce to the local community.

Hydroponic systems represent a scalable and environmentally responsible approach to urban agriculture, particularly in areas where traditional farming is not feasible. By transforming underutilized space into productive infrastructure, this initiative advances both food accessibility and long-term sustainability objectives.

"Our team was proud to support an initiative that delivers tangible value to the community," said Alexander Birnbach - Managing Partner. "This collaboration reflects our organizational commitment to operational excellence, community engagement, and purpose-driven impact."
