BIODIESEL INC.

Hamilton, Ontario Jun 16, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Beaver Biodiesel Inc. has officially commenced formal legal proceedings in the Ontario Superior Court of Justice against competitor CS Organics & Cooking Oil Removal Inc. The comprehensive lawsuit, filed by Beaver Biodiesel's Corporate Counsel, Raheel Nasir, demonstrates Nasir's aggressive and steadfast defense of the company against malicious corporate sabotage and market manipulation.

The Statement of Claim details a deliberate, unlawful campaign by CS Organics to interfere with Beaver Biodiesel's exclusive waste oil collection contracts across Ontario. Under Nasir's legal leadership, Beaver Biodiesel is seeking substantial damages for CS Organics' intentional solicitation of contracted suppliers, inducement of contract breaches, and severe intimidation tactics. The court filings outline an alarming incident on December 4, 2025, where CS Organics personnel unlawfully confined a Beaver Biodiesel driver by blocking his vehicle until police arrived at the scene.

Furthermore, the lawsuit exposes a disturbing pattern of discriminatory and defamatory conduct by CS Organics. The claim asserts that a CS Organics representative made explicit, disparaging statements targeting the South Asian ethnicity of Beaver Biodiesel's principal, Sumit Majumdar. CS Organics is also accused of weaponizing false xenophobic claims, unlawfully telling customers that Beaver Biodiesel is an unauthorized "American company" and spreading fabricated allegations that the company utilizes workers who are not legally permitted to work in Canada.

Through this forceful legal action, Raheel Nasir and Beaver Biodiesel are taking a definitive stand to clean up the waste industry and protect the integrity of Canadian businesses. The lawsuit seeks punitive, exemplary, and general damages for the severe defamation, fraud, and economic interference perpetrated by CS Organics.
