Tampa, Florida Jun 4, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - International Support Consulting (ISC) proudly congratulates Founder Brian Kent on being named a 2026 Top Consultant Honoree in Strategy and Transformation by Consulting Magazine, one of the consulting industry's most respected publications recognizing excellence, innovation, and leadership among consultants worldwide.

The award recognizes consultants who have demonstrated exceptional impact in helping organizations navigate change, execute strategic initiatives, and achieve measurable business results. Throughout his career, Kent has built a reputation as a trusted strategic advisor and transformation consultant, partnering with executive teams to translate vision into disciplined execution and sustainable organizational growth.

Known for his expertise in strategy development, operational alignment, and leadership accountability, Kent works closely with organizations to navigate complex challenges, clarify priorities, and implement scalable systems that drive long-term success. His approach combines analytical rigor with practical implementation, ensuring strategic plans become embedded within daily operations through measurable key performance indicators (KPIs), accountability frameworks, and performance-driven execution.

Among his many accomplishments, Kent has guided organizations through high-impact transformation initiatives that resulted in significant operational improvements and business growth, including helping a company achieve recognition twice on the prestigious Inc. 5000 list of America's fastest-growing private companies.

"I'm honored to receive this recognition from Consulting Magazine," said Kent. "This award reflects the dedication of our team and our commitment to helping organizations navigate complex transformation initiatives."

While Kent is widely recognized for his work in strategy and organizational transformation, he is equally passionate about supporting initiatives that create meaningful impact in people's lives. One cause particularly close to him is equestrian-assisted therapy for military veterans and first responders.

Kent has been an active supporter of Broken Arrow Wranglers, an Arizona-based organization that provides equestrian therapy programs designed to promote healing, resilience, and connection for service members and emergency personnel. Inspired by the life-changing work of the organization, he is currently working with a group in Northern Virginia to explore opportunities to establish a similar program locally, helping expand access to these services for veterans, first responders, and their families.

"I've always believed leadership is about serving others," Kent said. "Whether I'm helping an organization navigate transformation or supporting programs that help veterans and first responders heal and thrive, the goal is the same: creating lasting, positive impact."

In addition to his consulting work, Kent has been recognized as Top Strategic Advisor of the Year and honored as Author of the Year by the International Impact Book Awards, reflecting his commitment to thought leadership and advancing best practices within the consulting and business leadership communities.

At the core of Kent's work is a leadership philosophy centered on clarity, discipline, and integrity. These principles have guided his consulting practice and helped organizations build stronger foundations for sustainable performance, accountability, and long-term success.
