

Carrot.com, Known for Local Lead Generation Websites, Announces New Time-Saving Marketing Agency Dashboard & AI Tools

The leading provider of local business lead generation websites has expanded its website and marketing tools to local marketing agencies, giving them a faster, easier way to get clients online with high-performance marketing.

Roseburg, Oregon Jun 9, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Carrot, the leading provider of local lead generation websites, just released CarrotAgency. This new product gives local search marketing agencies an easy way to offer secure, high-performance, SEO-optimized websites to local businesses for online lead generation.

“Until now, we were completely focused on single end users. But a lot of agencies build on top of Carrot, and we have so many agencies using Carrot to get far better local search performance through SEO, AI SEO, Google ads, Facebook ads,” Carrot CEO Trevor Mauch said. “We’re excited to offer this new agency-focused experience that gives them the tools and features they need, so they can save time, deliver better results, and grow their businesses more successfully with Carrot.”

Carrot’s AI website builder and AI optimization tools allow agencies to launch high-converting websites in minutes and continuously optimize and improve sites with a fraction of the time and resources. All Carrot websites are built on a highly tested framework that emphasizes speed, security, local SEO, and visitor conversions. This reduces the need for in-house designers, teams of SEO experts, and speciality coders. CarrotAgency allows solo-operators and small local marketing agencies to grow their client base and deliver high-quality results while controlling costs.

The backbone of CarrotAgency is the AI tools that underpin the Carrot website and marketing experience. Agencies and their clients have access to:
