

Elizabeth (Liz) England, RN, BSN, CLNC, Advances Clinical Insight In Legal Nurse Consulting

Experienced Registered Nurse and Certified Legal Nurse Consultant Strengthens Attorney Support Through In-Depth Clinical Analysis of medical records.

Surprise, Arizona Jun 30, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Elizabeth (LIZ) England, RN, BSN, CLNC, is a highly experienced healthcare professional and certified legal nurse consultant with more than 43 years of nursing and clinical practice. Through her sole proprietorship in legal nurse consulting, she provides attorneys with comprehensive medical record reviews, case evaluations, and expert clinical insight, with a particular focus on medical malpractice matters. Her work centers on screening medical records for merit, research and evidence-based analyses, writing reports that the Attorney can use in preparing his case. Also, assisting him/her in finding expert witnesses.

England earned her Bachelor of Science in Nursing with honors from the University of Alabama at Birmingham, marking the foundation of a long and distinguished clinical career. Her commitment to healthcare was deeply influenced early in life by the loss of her father to a sudden cardiac event, an experience that shaped her dedication to cardiac care, prevention, and patient advocacy. This personal connection to the impact of acute cardiac conditions has remained a guiding influence throughout her professional journey.

Her extensive clinical background spans a wide range of healthcare environments, including medical-surgical nursing, telemetry, step-down units, and a 15-year tenure in intensive care; and currently working in Cath Lab recovery. Throughout these roles, England developed advanced critical care competencies and a strong ability to function effectively in high-acuity, fast-paced clinical settings. She also completed travel nursing assignments and provided care aboard cruise ships, experiences that further broadened her adaptability and reinforced her capacity to deliver safe, effective care in diverse and often resource-limited environments.

In addition to her consulting practice, England continues to maintain active clinical engagement by working part-time in cardiac catheterization lab recovery on a PRN basis several times each month. This ongoing hands-on practice enables her to remain current with evolving clinical standards and maintain an active nursing license, which is valid through 2029. Her continued clinical involvement strengthens the accuracy and relevance of her consulting work in legal settings.

England's transition into legal nurse consulting was inspired by her service as a juror, where she gained firsthand insight into the complexities of medical evidence within the legal system. Motivated to bridge the gap between healthcare and law, she completed formal training through the Vicki Malazzo Institute and earned her Certified Legal Nurse Consultant (CLNC) credential. She is also an associate member of the National Association for Legal Support Professionals (NALS), and the Arizona Nursing Association. She remains actively engaged in continuing education and professional development.

Reflecting on her career, England emphasizes her commitment to truth, accuracy, and collaboration. She values the opportunity to ensure that medical facts are clearly understood and appropriately represented in legal contexts. She also highlights the importance of teamwork in nursing and her ongoing dedication to supporting colleagues across both clinical and legal environments. Through her work, she continues to advocate for nursing as a skilled, respected Profession while reinforcing standards of care that support both patient safety and legal clarity.
