Legacy Match, a new relationship-focused dating platform, today announced the opening of its Orlando waitlist ahead of its official launch. Built for singles seeking meaningful, long-term relationships, Legacy Match introduces a more intentional approach to online dating by emphasizing compatibility, authenticity, and quality connections over endless swiping.

As online dating continues to evolve, many singles have grown frustrated with superficial interactions, endless swiping, and matches that rarely lead to lasting relationships. Legacy Match was created to offer an alternative—one centered on intentional matchmaking, meaningful compatibility, and authentic connections.

Launching first in Orlando, Florida, Legacy Match is focused on building a strong local community before expanding into additional markets. Individuals who join the waitlist will receive early updates, exclusive launch announcements, and priority access as the platform prepares for its public release.

"Legacy Match was built on the belief that meaningful relationships deserve a more intentional approach," said the founder of Legacy Match. "Our mission is to create an experience where compatibility, authenticity, and genuine connection come before endless swiping."

Legacy Match is designed with an emphasis on thoughtful matching, user safety, and a relationship-first experience.

Singles interested in becoming early members can join the Orlando waitlist by visiting <https://www.joinlegacymatch.com>. Waitlist members will receive exclusive updates, early access opportunities, and launch announcements as Legacy Match prepares for its official debut.
