

MacGizmoGuy Launches WaterlilyBear.com — A Go-To Resource for Mini-Pond Container Water Gardening Tips

MacGizmoGuy Brings Decades of Horticultural Expertise to a New Generation of Water Gardeners Just in Time for the 2026 Growing Season. As The Waterlily Bear, He Brings Tips and Insights for Growing Waterlilies, Lotus and Pond Plants in a Small Space

Palm Springs, California Jun 9, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Russell T. Baer, widely known across the web and social media as MacGizmoGuy, today announced the launch of WaterlilyBear.com, a comprehensive online destination dedicated to the art and science of growing water lilies, lotus, and pond plants in container water gardens. The site launches as the water gardening season in the US ramps up, offering enthusiasts across North America the expert knowledge and product guidance they need to prepare for a stunning summer water garden.

WaterlilyBear.com arrives at the intersection of lifelong botanical passion and decades of professional digital expertise. Baer spent four decades as a certified Apple Computer consultant — earning the MacGizmoGuy moniker that remains his brand across every major social media platform — before turning his full attention to his life's passion: the cultivation of aquatic plants. Having researched and explored the past century of the evolution of the water gardening hobby, he has witnessed the progression from a limited palette of classic varieties to today's extraordinary global proliferation of water lily and lotus hybrids. Baer brings a depth of horticultural and historical perspective that is rare among online gardening resources.

The WaterlilyBear.com website is designed to serve both first-time water gardeners and experienced horticulturists alike. Visitors will find comprehensive beginner guides covering successful mini-pond water gardening fundamentals, expert plant selection advice, and a detailed FAQ addressing the most common challenges growers face. A regularly updated container water gardening blog and hundreds of video shorts across social media keep readers current on developments within Baer's own patio water garden through the season, as well as broader news from the water lily and aquatic plant industry — a multibillion-dollar global business that spans continents and cultures.

"I've spent a lifetime watching water gardening evolve — from the early days of a handful of classic varieties to today's extraordinary explosion of water lily and lotus hybrids that have transformed what's possible even in a small container mini-pond. At WaterlilyBear.com I bring that decades-deep horticultural perspective to anyone ready to experience the remarkable world of growing aquatic plants for themselves." — Russell T. Baer, MacGizmoGuy

Complementing the website, Baer produces short-form video tutorials documenting his daily water gardening activities throughout the growing season — from planting and fertilizing to managing water quality and showcasing blooms. His primary video platform is Clapper App, with content also distributed across YouTube, TikTok, Twitter/X and additional major social media platforms, all consistently branded under the MacGizmoGuy identity he has built over a professional lifetime online.

With the desert Southwest already entering its peak water gardening season and the rest of North America turning into summer, the timing of WaterlilyBear.com's launch provides enthusiasts across the continent an ideal window to gather knowledge, select plants, and source materials in time to establish their own thriving container water garden this year.

About Russell T. Baer / MacGizmoGuy: Russell is a retired technology consultant, entrepreneur, and lifelong horticulturist based in Palm Springs, California. Over a decades-long career as a certified computer consultant, he built the MacGizmoGuy brand as a trusted voice for Apple Macintosh, iPad, and iPhone product recommendations, a legacy continued at MacGizmoGuy.com.

In retirement, Baer channels his expertise and passion into WaterlilyBear.com - sharing his deep knowledge of aquatic plant cultivation, water lily and lotus hybrid developments, and mini-pond container water gardening tips with enthusiasts across North America and beyond.

Media Contact

MacGizmoGuy

*****@macgizmoguy.com

<https://macgizmoguy.com>

Source : MacGizmoGuy

See on IssueWire