Los Angeles, California Jun 25, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Patchdesign.ai Launches First AI Platform to Deliver Custom Patches Worldwide in 10 Days at 30% Less Than Competitors

Patchdesign.ai today officially announced the launch of its groundbreaking AI-driven platform, transforming how organizations, clubs, and businesses source custom merchandise. By combining advanced artificial intelligence with a fully automated manufacturing pipeline, the platform eliminates traditional graphic design costs and slashes production friction—delivering premium custom patches worldwide in just 10 days and up to 30% less than legacy competitors.

Unlike traditional custom merchandise pipelines, Patchdesign.ai makes the entire artwork and design process 100% free. Anyone can immediately test the intuitive AI custom patch generator at <https://patchdesign.ai/> to instantly visualize complex brand concepts today with zero financial commitment.

The platform represents the direct result of deep professional enterprise expertise intersecting with widespread industry frustration. As seasoned global eCommerce and supply chain veterans who spent years working directly alongside major patch manufacturers, the founders grew intimately familiar with the operational friction inherent in legacy factory pipelines. Recognizing that the custom merchandise industry remained severely bogged down by hidden design fees, rigid order minimums, clunky quoting systems, and slow turnarounds, they engineered an automated solution built specifically for the digital age.

"Traditional custom ordering is broken, slow, and needlessly expensive," said the Founder of Patchdesign.ai. "Having dealt with major manufacturers from a corporate perspective, we knew where the supply chain bottlenecks were hidden. By automating artwork generation and manufacturing setup, we offer premium physical patches at 30% less than traditional competitors, with guaranteed delivery to your door in 10 days."
