

People Are Betting On Whether Andrew Tate Will Turn Up At Taylor Swifts Wedding

New York City, New York Jun 16, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Andrew Tate has unexpectedly found himself at the centre of online speculation surrounding what is being billed as one of the biggest celebrity weddings in recent memory, with prediction markets now offering odds on whether he will attend the upcoming wedding of Taylor Swift and Travis Kelce which is allegedly due to be held at Madison Square Garden in July.

Reported by The Sunday Times in the UK - Here

The unusual market emerged as millions of dollars continue to be wagered across prediction platforms on the event, from the venue and guest list to potential celebrity appearances. Among the names attracting attention is Andrew Tate, despite there being no public indication that he has any connection to the couple.

According to reports, users on prediction platforms have been actively placing bets on whether Tate will make an appearance at the wedding, creating one of the more unlikely storylines surrounding the event. The market has generated discussion across social media, with many users expressing surprise that Tate's name has started to dominate the conversation.

The speculation gained further attention after Tate himself acknowledged the betting activity online, adding fuel to the discussion among supporters.

A spokesperson said:

“Apparently he’s become so famous that people are now taking bets on whether he’ll appear at events he’s never been invited to. Every week the media finds a new way to put his name in a headline because they know people click on it. He doesn’t know Taylor Swift, he hasn’t spoken to Taylor Swift, and yet somehow he’s part of the story. That’s the internet in 2026.”

Despite having no known involvement in the wedding, his inclusion alongside musicians, athletes and celebrities being discussed as potential guests has become a story in itself which Tate referred to in his latest X post saying:

“MSM includes me in ANYTHING it can for clicks.

People talk/lie about me because im Top G and they need me to matter.

Unless they say my name nobody cares what they say at all.”

High profile public figures are now routinely becoming subjects of betting markets regardless of whether they have any direct involvement in the events themselves.

While there is currently no indication that Tate will be attending the wedding, the fact that people are willing to wager money on the possibility has created an unexpected crossover between one of the world’s biggest pop culture events and one of the internet’s most talked about personalities.

Media Contact

Roger Hawke

*****@gmail.com

Source : Cobratate

See on IssueWire