

Praise Kusi Announces Upcoming EP "After 21:00" Set for Worldwide Release on July 3, 2026

Ghanaian Afrobeat artist Praise Kusi continues his global rise with a highly anticipated new project blending Afrobeat rhythms, personal storytelling, and contemporary African sounds.

Chandler, Arizona Jun 23, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Ghanaian Afrobeat artist After 21:00 has officially announced the upcoming release of his highly anticipated EP, After 21:00, scheduled for worldwide release on July 3, 2026.

The new project represents a major step forward in Praise Kusi's musical journey, showcasing his continued growth as an artist while expanding his reach across Africa, the United States, and international markets. Known for blending Afrobeat rhythms with contemporary global influences, Praise Kusi has built a growing audience through music that connects cultures and celebrates authentic storytelling.

After 21:00 is one of the artist's most ambitious projects to date, delivering a collection of songs that reflect personal experiences, creative evolution, and the vibrant energy that has become a hallmark of his sound. The EP combines infectious Afrobeat rhythms, memorable melodies, and modern production to create a listening experience that resonates with audiences worldwide.

"After 21:00 is more than just a project for me. It represents growth, reflection, and the experiences that have shaped my journey as an artist," said Praise Kusi. "I wanted to create music that people can connect with while staying true to my African roots and sharing my story with the world."

The announcement comes as Afrobeat continues to experience tremendous global growth, with artists from across Africa reaching audiences on an unprecedented scale. Praise Kusi remains committed to contributing to the genre's international expansion while maintaining the authenticity and cultural influences that inspire his music.

In support of the release, Praise Kusi will continue engaging with fans through digital platforms, promotional campaigns, and exclusive listening experiences leading up to the EP launch. The project is expected to further strengthen his position as one of the emerging independent Afrobeat artists building a global audience through music and innovation.

After 21:00 will be available on major streaming platforms worldwide beginning July 3, 2026.
