

Sochely Launches Global Platform to Help People Discover Events, Create Gatherings, and Plan Experiences

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Jun 24, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Sochely, a new event discovery and experience platform developed by RepairFlow Inc., today announced its official launch, providing users with a single destination to discover local events, create gatherings, find activities, and plan trips.

While millions of people attend events every year, organizing and discovering experiences remains fragmented across social networks, ticketing platforms, travel websites, messaging apps, and community groups. Sochely was created to simplify that process by bringing event discovery, event creation, activity recommendations, and travel planning together in one platform.

The platform allows organizers to create events for free, manage RSVPs, share invitations, promote gatherings, and connect with potential attendees. Users can discover events, explore activities, find tours and experiences, and build travel plans based on their interests and destinations.

Unlike many event platforms that focus primarily on large ticketed events, Sochely is also designed for everyday gatherings such as birthday parties, baby showers, graduation celebrations, family reunions, church events, networking events, fundraisers, community events, and local meetups.

“We believe creating and sharing experiences should be as simple as posting on social media,” said Dimitry Gondre, Founder and CEO of RepairFlow Inc. “Whether someone is organizing a birthday party, promoting a community fundraiser, hosting a networking event, or planning a trip, Sochely provides the tools needed to bring people together.”

Sochely’s growing platform includes:

- Free event creation and promotion tools
- RSVP and attendee management
- Event discovery and recommendations
- Local activities and experiences marketplace
- Trip planning and itinerary tools
- Community and group event support
- Ticketed and non-ticketed event hosting

The company believes the global events and experiences market continues to present significant opportunities as consumers increasingly seek local activities, social experiences, and personalized travel recommendations.

Sochely is available worldwide and is actively expanding its catalog of events, activities, organizers, and destinations.
