

America's Best in Medicine Highlights Gregory Montgomery, DDS, MSD: Advanced Periodontal and Implant Specialist Serving Silverdale, Washington

Combining Surgical Expertise, Advanced Implant Training, and Compassionate Care to Help Patients Achieve Healthier Smiles and Improved Quality of Life

Silverdale, Washington Jul 28, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Gregory Montgomery, DDS, MSD, is a highly trained periodontist practicing at Lowell Street Periodontal and Implant Surgery in Silverdale,

Washington, where he provides advanced periodontal and implant care with a focus on patient comfort, long-term oral health, and personalized treatment solutions. Through a combination of clinical precision and compassionate communication, Dr. Montgomery helps patients restore function, confidence, and the health of their smiles.

With extensive training in periodontal surgery and implant dentistry, Dr. Montgomery is committed to delivering evidence-based care while ensuring each patient feels informed, comfortable, and supported throughout their treatment journey. His approach is centered on understanding every patient's unique goals and developing customized treatment plans designed to achieve lasting oral health outcomes.

"What I enjoy most about practicing medicine is the ability to provide care that meaningfully improves my patients' oral health, comfort, and long-term quality of life. Periodontics allows me to combine advanced surgical techniques with a patient-centered approach, helping individuals restore both function and confidence in their smiles," says Dr. Montgomery.

Dr. Montgomery began his academic journey at Creighton University School of Dentistry in Omaha, Nebraska, where he earned his Doctor of Dental Surgery Degree after completing a rigorous curriculum combining comprehensive dental education with hands-on clinical training. During his time at Creighton, he also met his future wife, who is originally from the Pacific Northwest, creating a personal connection to the region that would eventually become home.

Following dental school, Dr. Montgomery practiced general dentistry while continuing to expand his expertise through advanced education in implant surgery and restorative dentistry. His dedication to professional growth led him to complete an implant fellowship and residency and earn Fellowship status in the Academy of General Dentistry.

Seeking to further specialize in surgical periodontal care, Dr. Montgomery completed the Periodontal and Implant Surgery Residency at the University of Washington. The highly competitive three-year program provided comprehensive full-time clinical and academic training, allowing him to develop advanced skills in periodontal procedures, implant therapy, and complex surgical treatment. As part of his graduate education, he also conducted original research focused on Porphyromonas gingivalis mutants, further contributing to his understanding of periodontal disease.

Through his advanced training and dedication to lifelong learning, Dr. Montgomery brings a high level of expertise to patients seeking periodontal and implant solutions. His practice philosophy emphasizes not only technical excellence but also trust, communication, and meaningful patient relationships.

Outside of his professional responsibilities, Dr. Montgomery enjoys life in the Pacific Northwest with his wife and two children. He is proud to serve the Silverdale community and values the opportunity to build long-term connections with the individuals and families who trust him with their care.

Guided by a commitment to improving oral health and enhancing patients' quality of life, Dr. Gregory Montgomery continues to provide advanced periodontal and implant treatment with the compassion, expertise, and personalized attention every patient deserves.
