

Cathy Stephens Jewellery Offers Jewellery Remodelling for Old and Unworn Pieces at Its Leicester and Nottingham Stores

Cathy Stephens Jewellery is highlighting its jewellery remodelling service for clients looking to transform old, inherited, or unworn pieces into something personal and wearable.

Leicester, Leicestershire Jul 9, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Cathy Stephens Jewellery is pleased to highlight its jewellery remodelling service for clients who have old, unworn, or sentimental pieces they would like to bring back to life. From our stores in Groby, Leicester and Nottingham, we work closely with clients to remodel existing jewellery into beautifully made new designs that can be worn, enjoyed, and passed on for years to come.

As a company known for bespoke and handmade jewellery, we understand that many pieces carry emotional value even if they are no longer worn in their current form. Our remodelling service gives clients the opportunity to reuse existing stones, metals, or treasured elements from older jewellery and turn them into something more practical, contemporary, and personal. Our website and client feedback both reflect this long-standing part of our work.

Whether a client brings in an inherited ring, a single earring, an outdated pendant, or a collection of unworn pieces sitting in a box, we can help explore new possibilities through bespoke design. We also create and remodel jewellery in silver, gold and platinum, offering a personal approach that focuses on craftsmanship, wearability, and individual taste.

At Cathy Stephens Jewellery, we believe remodelling is about more than updating a design. It is about preserving meaning while creating something that feels right for today. This can include transforming family jewellery into a new ring, pendant, necklace, bracelet, or earrings, while retaining the story behind the original piece. Customer testimonials on our site describe remodelled jewellery as becoming wearable statement pieces and lasting heirlooms.

With stores in Leicester and Nottingham, we continue to welcome clients who want expert guidance on redesigning jewellery they no longer wear. Our remodelling service reflects our wider commitment to bespoke craftsmanship, personal service, and jewellery designed to be valued for generations.
