San Francisco, California Jul 10, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - DriveTestIQ.com, an independent driver-knowledge study platform, today launched the California Retest Relief Program for drivers required to retake the California written knowledge test, offering eligible drivers free 30-day access to its complete

California written knowledge test study platform.

Eligible drivers can learn more and apply at: <https://drivetestiq.com/california-retest-relief>

The program responds to recent notices sent to approximately 11,000 California drivers requiring them to retake the written knowledge test within 30 days. Many affected drivers now need to prepare on short notice, and some prefer to study in a language other than English.

Through the California Retest Relief Program, eligible drivers get free 30-day access to all our 657 California practice questions created by DriveTestIQ.com and complete California study tools — with no payment card, no subscription, and no automatic renewal.

DriveTestIQ.com offers study support in 12 languages: English, Spanish, Chinese, Korean, Tagalog, Vietnamese, Hindi, Persian, Arabic, Russian, Japanese, and Armenian. Drivers can study in the language they are most comfortable with, making preparation easier for California's diverse communities.

Every practice question created by DriveTestIQ.com is written and reviewed using publicly available California driving laws and regulations. The platform focuses on helping drivers understand the rules of the road — road signs, right-of-way, traffic rules, and safe-driving principles — rather than memorizing answers, so they can walk into the test prepared.

The DriveTestIQ.com team said: "Our goal is simple: help California drivers who received these notices get ready with confidence, in the language they know best, at no cost."

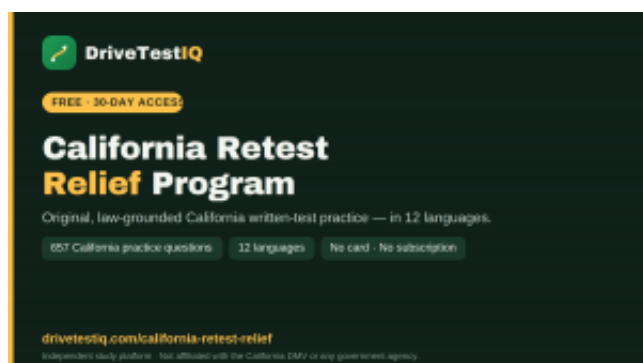

The California Retest Relief Program runs for a limited time. DriveTestIQ.com collects only the information needed to grant access and does not require a license number or other sensitive personal information to participate.

DriveTestIQ.com is an independent study platform and is not affiliated with, endorsed by, or approved by any government agency.
