

ExpatInsure Opens Cyprus Office to Expand International Health Insurance Across Europe

The new Larnaca base gives the specialist broker a platform in the EU from which to grow its international health insurance offering across Europe, building on its established operations in the US and UK.

Nicosia District, Cyprus Jul 6, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - ExpatInsure, the AI-native international health insurance broker, today announced the opening of a new office in Larnaca, Cyprus — establishing a base in the EU and a platform from which to expand its international health insurance offering across Europe.

The opening is a significant milestone in ExpatInsure's European strategy. The Larnaca base establishes the company's presence in the EU and gives it the platform from which to expand across Europe — extending a specialist, international-focused model already operating in the United States and the United Kingdom.

Breadth is the point. International healthcare is a market defined by movement, and ExpatInsure's strength is the support it provides across geographies and time zones — staying with customers as they relocate, rather than leaving them to start again each time they move. The new Larnaca office puts that support on the ground in Europe.

ExpatInsure pairs its unique AI-native comparison technology — which lets customers search millions of prices in seconds — with experienced human brokers, removing the complexity of buying international health cover while keeping the reassurance and judgement that customers value most. The company's insurer panel includes Cigna Global, Aetna International, AXA, Allianz Care, and Bupa Global.

The leadership team brings senior experience from major international insurance organisations, including board and executive roles at some of the sector's largest carriers.

“Europe is a natural next step for us. Opening in Cyprus gives us a base in the EU and the platform we need to expand across Europe — so we can keep doing the thing we care about most: making it genuinely easy for people to find the right international health insurance cover, in seconds, wherever they choose to call home.”

Chris Carter, Founder and CEO, ExpatInsure

About ExpatInsure

ExpatInsure is an independent, AI-native international health insurance broker, dedicated to simplifying global medical cover for individuals, families, retirees and small companies living or working abroad. With established operations in the United States and the United Kingdom and a new base in the EU, it pairs its unique AI-native comparison technology — which lets customers search millions of prices in seconds — with experienced human brokers, removing the complexity of buying cover while keeping the reassurance and judgement customers value most.

Learn more at www.expatinsure.com.

Media Contact

www.expatinsure.com

@expatinsure.com

+447801418298

<https://www.expatinsure.com>

Source : Expatinsure

See on IssueWire