

Turn Up the Heat: Dex System's Summer Thriller Picks

Fast-paced geopolitical thrillers built to finish in a weekend.

New York City, New York Jul 30, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - For readers who want tension with their sunscreen, Dex System Publishing is highlighting its fastest-paced military and geopolitical thrillers this week — page-turners built for poolside reading as the peak of the summer travel season, kicked off around the Fourth of July, continues into August.

Garrison West headlines the list with both Strike Beirut and Choke Point, joined by Bomb Iran from Jack Wilson and William Tell: Legacy of the Marksman from Liam Conrad. Each title is positioned around pacing and page-count as a 'finish it in a weekend' selling point — the kind of read that survives a long flight or a rainy afternoon at a rental house.

"These are books built for interruption," a Dex System spokesperson said. "Readers can put one down at the airport and pick it back up without losing the thread. That matters more in August than any other month."

Garrison West and Liam Conrad continue to anchor the catalog's geopolitical thriller line, with more from both authors featured across the AM I AM catalog. Outlets running summer thriller roundups are encouraged to request review copies ahead of the release date.

Both authors are available for short interviews on the research and pacing decisions behind their respective series, for outlets interested in a craft-focused angle alongside the standard title roundup.
