The workshop's services include computer diagnostics, general automotive mechanics, wheel alignment, oil changes, brake system repairs, clutch replacement, timing belt and timing chain services, tyre replacement and vulcanization, air conditioning servicing and other mechanical repairs. JMT also provides assistance with vehicle damage claims and related repair work.

A key part of the JMT approach is combining diagnostics with practical repair work. Identifying the cause of a vehicle problem before carrying out repairs can help vehicle owners make better decisions about maintenance and avoid unnecessary component replacement.

The workshop works with passenger vehicles and provides support for both routine maintenance and more complex mechanical problems. Its service offering includes work on braking systems, suspension, steering components, engines, drivetrains and other major vehicle systems.

JMT also provides wheel alignment services, an important part of maintaining correct vehicle handling, tyre wear and driving stability. Tyre-related services and wheel work are available as part of the workshop's broader automotive service offering.

Regular maintenance is another important part of the workshop's work. Services such as engine oil and filter replacement, brake component replacement and timing system maintenance can help vehicle owners maintain their vehicles and identify potential problems before they become more serious. JMT specifically provides timing belt and timing system replacement services, including related diagnostics and component replacement.

The workshop also follows developments in modern automotive technology. Its published automotive materials cover subjects including hybrid battery regeneration, ADAS systems, ACC radar calibration, ECU tuning, electronic vehicle systems and modern engine components, reflecting the increasingly technological nature of vehicle servicing.

"We believe that good automotive service starts with understanding the vehicle and identifying the actual cause of a problem. Our aim is to provide customers with practical solutions, professional workmanship and clear information about the work their vehicle needs," says the Auto Serwis JMT team.
