Temecula, California Aug 8, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - California Monitor Gives Away Free Classroom Resources to Teachers, Parents & Homeschool Families Nationwide Free collection includes classroom graphics, printable certificates, fonts, clipart, children's music, and creative educational resources designed to support teachers and inspire learning.

As teachers prepare for a new school year, California Professional Visitation Monitor and National Trainer Darlene Pinkernell-Tarnoski is giving back to educators by offering a growing collection of FREE classroom resources to teachers, parents, teacher's aides, tutors, childcare providers, and homeschool families across the United States.

The free resources are available online and include a variety of creative tools designed to make lesson planning and classroom activities easier and more engaging. Visitors can download classroom graphics, printable certificates, fonts, clipart, children's music, and other educational materials at no cost.

"I've always believed that education changes lives," said Pinkernell-Tarnoski. "Teachers give so much of themselves every day, and I wanted to create something that makes their work just a little easier while bringing more creativity and encouragement into the classroom."

The free downloads are available at:

While creating free educational resources for classrooms nationwide, Pinkernell-Tarnoski also trains Professional Visitation Monitors who help children maintain safe and meaningful connections with their families during difficult transitions.

Professional Visitation Monitors provide supervised visitation services that allow children to spend time with a parent in a safe, neutral, and child-focused environment. The work offers flexible part-time opportunities for individuals looking to make a positive difference in the lives of children and families.

"Many people have never heard of Professional Visitation Monitoring," Pinkernell-Tarnoski explained. "It's meaningful work that helps families stay connected while ensuring children's safety and well-being. I hope that while teachers are visiting the free resource page, some may also discover a rewarding part-time career they never knew existed."

Pinkernell-Tarnoski has spent more than two decades working with families and professionals throughout California and has trained thousands of visitation monitors, mediators, and family service professionals nationwide.

In addition to providing free educational resources, she develops online training programs, children's books, educational materials, and creative resources designed to support families, educators, and professionals.
