

Madison Whittaker, RN, BSN: Interventional Radiology Nurse with X-Ray Associates of New Mexico

Combining Critical Care Experience, Advanced Clinical Skills, and a Family-Focused Approach to Improve Patient Outcomes Across New Mexico

Albuquerque, New Mexico Aug 11, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Madison (Maddie) Whittaker, RN, BSN, is a dedicated Registered Nurse with more than four years of experience providing specialized patient care across critical care and interventional radiology settings. Currently serving as an Interventional Radiology Nurse with X-Ray Associates of New Mexico, she supports a wide range of minimally invasive procedures focused on pain management and oncology care, including biopsies, diagnostic interventions, chemotherapy support, and radiation treatment services. As a sedation nurse, Maddie combines advanced clinical expertise with a compassionate, patient-centered approach to ensure individuals receive safe, personalized care throughout every stage of treatment.

Maddie's nursing philosophy centers on collaboration, communication, and the belief that healthcare extends beyond the walls of a hospital. She is passionate about involving patients' families and caregivers in the care process, recognizing the important role they play in supporting recovery and long-term wellness.

"I really like concentrating on family and involving caretakers and those kinds of things in patient care," Maddie explains. "That was a big motivational factor for doing interventions in ICU, having families being involved in care, and that is just so rewarding, especially coming from somewhere where I did more rural nursing. It's great to get people involved because your community is also going to be with you, and it's not just going to be us at the bedside. We want care to be throughout your stay and to be taken care of at home as well."

Prior to joining interventional radiology, Maddie spent the majority of her nursing career within the University of New Mexico Health System, serving in the Trauma, Surgical, and Burn Intensive Care Unit at The University of New Mexico Health Sciences Center as well as UNM Sandoval Regional Medical Center. Working in these high-acuity environments strengthened her clinical judgment, sharpened her leadership abilities, and reinforced her commitment to evidence-based practice while caring for patients facing some of the most complex medical conditions.

Her educational journey reflects the same dedication to professional excellence that defines her clinical work. Maddie earned her Associate Degree in Nursing from Central New Mexico Community College before completing her Bachelor of Science in Nursing at The University of New Mexico. Throughout her career, she has remained committed to expanding her knowledge and refining her skills to better serve patients and their families.

In addition to providing direct patient care, Maddie contributes to the advancement of nursing practice through involvement in clinical policy development, staff education, and training initiatives that promote operational efficiency and high-quality patient care. She believes continuous learning is essential in an evolving healthcare environment and actively pursues advanced certifications and professional development opportunities.

Looking toward the future, Maddie is currently completing prerequisites for a Doctor of Nursing Practice and Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetist (CRNA) program. Her long-term goal is to continue advancing her clinical expertise while expanding her ability to provide specialized anesthesia and procedural care to patients across a variety of healthcare settings.

Whether caring for critically ill patients in the intensive care unit or guiding individuals through minimally invasive procedures in interventional radiology, Maddie remains committed to treating every patient with dignity, compassion, and respect. She understands that exceptional nursing involves not only technical skill but also empathy, communication, and partnership with families throughout the healthcare journey.

Driven by a passion for helping others while maintaining a healthy work-life balance, Madison (Maddie) Whittaker continues to make a meaningful impact on patients, colleagues, and the future of healthcare. Through her commitment to lifelong learning, clinical excellence, and compassionate care, she is building a career dedicated to improving patient outcomes and strengthening the communities she serves.
