Malik Consolidated Steps In as Amazon FBA Grows More Complex in 2026

Kennewick, Washington Aug 19, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - A managed FBA service helping everyday investors run Amazon stores without doing the hard work themselves, at a time when selling on Amazon alone has never been harder

Malik Consolidated LLC is here for investors who want to earn from Amazon FBA but do not want to deal with how hard the platform has become. Amazon has changed a lot in 2026. Fees are higher. Rules are stricter. And running a store alone takes more time and skill than most people have. Malik Consolidated LLC handles all of it so clients do not have to.

The company builds, manages, and grows Amazon FBA stores for its clients from start to finish. Clients put in the money. The team does all the daily work.

What Has Changed on Amazon in 2026

Amazon FBA in 2026 is not what it was a few years ago.

In January 2026, Amazon stopped offering its FBA prep and labeling services in the United States. Every seller now has to handle their own packaging, labeling, and preparation before sending stock to Amazon. This was a big change. Many sellers who relied on Amazon to do this for them now have to figure it out alone or pay someone else to do it.

At the same time, FBA fees went up by 6 percent. Ad costs rose 22 percent compared to the year before. New seller sign-ups dropped by 44 percent. More and more people are realising that selling on Amazon alone is harder than it looks.

The platform is still huge. Over 2.5 million sellers are active on Amazon right now. Around 82 percent of them use FBA to handle their orders. The opportunity is real. But the work needed to do it well has grown a lot.

For someone trying to handle product research, suppliers, listings, stock, and now full prep compliance all by themselves, it is simply too much. Most people give up before they ever make real money.

How Malik Consolidated LLC Helps

It takes care of everything a client would otherwise have to do themselves.

The team picks the right products using real data. They link clients straight to manufacturers, not wholesalers or middlemen, so more profit stays in the client's hands. They build and manage the listing. They watch stock levels and reorder before things run low. They track how the store is doing and make changes when needed. And when the store is ready to grow, they handle the scaling too.

Clients do not need to know anything about Amazon. They do not need to learn how any of this works. They invest in the store. The team runs it.

Going directly to manufacturers is one of the biggest advantages this service offers. Most new sellers buy through middlemen because they do not have direct contacts. Every middleman adds cost. Removing them means more money on every sale, from day one.

What Clients Have Said

Real clients have shared their experiences on Trustpilot.

Luke Collins had been a client for two years when he left his review. He said the team linked him straight to manufacturers and cut out the middlemen. He was making a steady profit.

Russel Grey said his store started slowly but got better step by step. After more than a year, he was happy with how things were going and was already planning to scale up and explore more investment options through the same team.

Both stories show the same thing. Amazon FBA takes time. The first few months are slow. But when the right team is running the store, things grow, and they keep growing.

Why Now Is the Time to Think About a Managed Service

Amazon has made FBA harder in 2026. But it has not made it less valuable.

The sellers doing well right now are the ones with real support behind them. They are not trying to learn everything at once. They are not guessing on products or chasing bad suppliers. They have a team that knows what to do and does it every single day.

For anyone who wants to earn from Amazon without running a store themselves, this is the right time to look at what a managed service can do.
