

Regulatum Launches Global Regulatory Compliance Intelligence Service for Corporate and Compliance Professionals

Regulatum delivers source-verified weekly regulatory alerts and a Monthly Global Compliance Digest covering developments across more than 390 jurisdictions and regulatory regimes worldwide.

REGULATUM

DRIVING GLOBAL COMPLIANCE WITH CONFIDENCE

regulatory compliance intelligence and regulatory monitoring service designed for company formation specialists, registered agents, corporate service providers, fiduciary firms, legal professionals, company secretaries, and compliance teams operating across multiple jurisdictions.

Regulatum monitors regulatory developments from official government authorities, statutory registries, regulators, and other official authorities. Relevant developments are presented as concise, traceable compliance intelligence to help professionals identify changes affecting company formation, beneficial ownership, corporate transparency, KYC and AML/CFT requirements, filing obligations, licensing, regulatory deadlines, and related corporate compliance matters.

The service combines Weekly Compliance Alerts with a Monthly Global Compliance Digest, giving subscribers both timely regulatory updates and a structured month-end review of material developments identified during the reporting period.

Regulatum's monitoring scope extends beyond country-level regulation. Its coverage spans more than 390 verified jurisdictions and regulatory regimes worldwide, including national and territorial jurisdictions, federal and subnational incorporation systems, crown dependencies, overseas territories, autonomous jurisdictions, free zones, special economic zones, international financial centers, offshore regimes, and other legally distinct corporate-registration systems.

More information about the scope of the service is available through Regulatum's global regulatory coverage.

Source-Verified Regulatory Intelligence

Every substantive development reported by Regulatum is tied to an official government, statutory registry, regulator, or authority source.

The reporting structure is designed to distinguish between final regulatory requirements, consultations, operational notices, enforcement developments, filing changes, and other types of regulatory activity. Where relevant, alerts identify what changed, who may be affected, applicable dates or deadlines, practical actions to consider, and the corresponding official source.

Monthly Global Compliance Digest

The Monthly Global Compliance Digest consolidates verified regulatory developments identified throughout each reporting month into a structured professional report.

A July 2026 edition contains 25 verified alerts across 12 jurisdictions and regulatory regimes, including 14 high-priority items. The report covers developments involving beneficial ownership, filing and entity status, AML/CFT supervision, corporate service provider oversight, registered-agent enforcement, nominee-director obligations, financial reporting, registry operations, and other areas relevant to corporate and compliance professionals.

The digest also includes an official source register providing direct references to the underlying authorities supporting the reported developments.

A sample of Regulatum's reporting can be viewed through its Monthly Global Compliance Digest sample.

Designed for Cross-Border Corporate Professionals

Professionals working across multiple jurisdictions often need to monitor separate registries, regulators, government portals, notices, guidance, and legislative developments.

Regulatum centralizes relevant developments into a consistent reporting format intended for professionals responsible for company administration, formation, registered-agent services, fiduciary work, regulatory monitoring, and corporate compliance.

Organizations working with particular jurisdictions, territories, free zones, offshore centers, or other corporate regimes may also request confirmation of coverage before subscribing.

Subscription Options

Regulatum is available for $149 per month or $1,490 per year.

Subscribers receive Weekly Compliance Alerts and the Monthly Global Compliance Digest. Organizations maintaining an eligible annual subscription may also receive the Regulatum Commitment Mark, supported by a public verification page confirming active service status for the applicable period.
