

AACS Atlanta for Court-Approved Evaluations, Classes, and Outpatient Programs Across Georgia

Marietta, Georgia Sep 30, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - AACS Atlanta, also known as American Alternative Court Services, continues to provide professional evaluation, education, counseling, and court-related services for individuals throughout Metro Atlanta and communities across Georgia.

With more than 25 years of service, AACS Atlanta works with individuals who need court-related evaluations, DUI services, DOT/SAP evaluations, mental health assessments, educational classes, behavioral programs, and outpatient support. The organization has locations serving Atlanta, Decatur, and Marietta, with some programs also available virtually.

Comprehensive Evaluation Services

AACS Atlanta provides several evaluation services designed for different court, employment, licensing, and professional requirements.

The Alcohol & Drug Evaluation provides an assessment of alcohol and drug-related concerns and can be used when an evaluation is required by a court, employer, or other referring organization.

For individuals dealing with DUI-related requirements, AACS Atlanta provides DUI Clinical Evaluation services. The website describes DUI evaluations as court-mandated assessments that may be ordered as part of probation or sentencing requirements.

AACS Atlanta also provides Out-of-State DUI Evaluation services for Georgia residents who have DUI-related requirements from another state.

For transportation and other DOT-regulated professionals, the organization provides SAP Evaluation for DOT and Clearinghouse services. AACS Atlanta also provides support related to the DOT Return-to-Duty process following a DOT drug or alcohol violation.

The organization also offers Mental Health Assessment services for individuals who require a professional assessment for court, legal, or other documented purposes.

DUI School and Risk Reduction Program

AACS Atlanta provides a DUI School – Risk Reduction Program. The program is a 20-hour course generally offered on weekends or evenings and uses the Prime for Life curriculum. The website states that the program may be required by a court or the Georgia Department of Driver Services.

The DUI School process begins with a Needs Assessment, followed by completion of the required 20-hour course in person according to the program requirements.

Court-Approved Classes and Educational Programs

AACS Atlanta provides several classes for individuals who have court, probation, personal development, or other educational requirements.

The available Anger Management Programs include different session options. The current website lists 4-hour, 8-hour, and 12-hour Anger Management classes.

The organization also offers an Online Parenting Class for individuals who need to complete a parenting education requirement.

For individuals with a court or other requirement related to theft offenses, AACS Atlanta provides a Shoplifting & Theft Prevention Course.

The Substance Abuse Awareness Program is available in multiple session lengths, allowing participants to complete the educational hours required for their specific situation.

AACS Atlanta also provides Values Clarification classes designed to address personal values and decision-making as part of applicable court or personal development requirements.

Family Violence Intervention Program

AACS Atlanta provides a Family Violence Intervention Program (FVIP) for individuals who need to complete a court-approved family violence intervention program.

The program is structured over 24 weeks and is offered in person at AACS Atlanta locations and virtually. The program uses gender-specific groups, including men's and women's groups, with a dedicated LGBTQ group also available. The curriculum addresses anger, aggression, violence, behavior, accountability, communication, and healthier responses to difficult situations.

Intensive Outpatient Program

AACS Atlanta also offers an Intensive Outpatient Program (IOP) for individuals who need structured professional support while continuing to live at home.

According to AACS Atlanta, its outpatient program can include individualized planning and approaches such as cognitive behavioral therapy, psychodynamic therapy, holistic modalities, and other professional strategies based on the individual's circumstances. Services are available across Atlanta, Decatur, and Marietta, with English and Spanish options.

Substance Abuse Counselor Training

For individuals interested in entering the addiction counseling field, AACS Atlanta offers Substance Abuse Counselor Training / CADC Training.

The program provides educational and practical preparation for individuals pursuing Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselor credentials. The website states that the training prepares candidates for CADC I and CADC II certification pathways and addresses educational requirements associated with certification bodies including the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Certification Board of Georgia (ADACBGA) and the International Certification and Reciprocity Consortium (IC&RC).
