

Five Eyes UAP Intelligence Network Revealed: Australia Received Classified US Analysis

Official U.S. and Australian Defence records show Five Eyes partners discussed classified UAP intelligence sharing, while Australia confirmed receiving classified analysis from the United States military.

Brisbane, Queensland Sep 2, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - UFO to UAP Explained has released a new News Special examining official government records that reveal Australia's involvement in Five Eyes discussions on unidentified anomalous phenomena and confirm that the United States military provided classified UAP analysis to Australian Defence.

The investigation, titled “Five Eyes UAP Intelligence Network Revealed: Australia Received Classified US Analysis,” draws on documents released by the U.S. Department of Defense's All-domain Anomaly Resolution Office and Australian Department of Defence Freedom of Information records.

AARO documents confirm that representatives from Australia, Canada, the United Kingdom and New Zealand joined U.S. officials at the Pentagon on 24 May 2023 for what was formally described as the “FVEY Inaugural UAP Caucus Working Group.”

According to the official agenda, the meeting was intended to create shared awareness of allied UAP issues involving detection, identification and mitigation, and to develop a framework for future UAP collaboration. Participants included representatives from AARO, the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, NASA, the Federal Aviation Administration and Five Eyes partners.

The agenda specifically identified Australia as one of four Five Eyes partners scheduled to provide a national UAP update. It also proposed discussions covering:

- Networks for sharing Five Eyes UAP reporting at unclassified and classified levels.
- Shared databases showing known objects detected using different sensors.
- Five Eyes UAP collection planning.
- Future UAP meetings.
- Potential connections with Five Eyes groups dealing with emerging and disruptive technologies.

An associated AARO email states that the meeting was held in a Pentagon room cleared for Top Secret/Sensitive Compartmented Information — TS/SCI. The use of such a facility does not establish that every discussion or presentation was classified at that level, but it demonstrates the intelligence environment surrounding the talks.

The Australian records provide an additional and potentially significant dimension.

In Defence material responding to parliamentary questions, Australia confirmed:

“Yes. The United States military released classified analysis to Defence.”

Defence also confirmed that Australia’s Air Commander provided a classified summary of relevant Air Force capabilities, while existing RAAF intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance systems, aircrew, air battle managers and intelligence officers provide pathways for observations to be communicated and analysed.

Australian Defence has separately confirmed that a Defence representative at the Australian Embassy in Washington attended the May 2023 Five Eyes UAP forum.

The revelations create an important policy question for Australia.

Despite participating in allied UAP discussions and receiving classified U.S. analysis, Defence has maintained that the Defence Aviation Safety Authority does not have a specific UAP reporting protocol. Australian Defence documents state that unusual observations are instead handled through existing aviation safety, intelligence, surveillance and national-security mechanisms where appropriate.

“The important revelation is not that Five Eyes has proven an extraterrestrial explanation for UAP. There is no evidence in these documents supporting that conclusion,” said UFO to UAP Explained host Matt Tones.

“What the records do establish is that unidentified anomalous phenomena have been considered seriously enough to warrant formal Five Eyes collaboration, classified information sharing and assessment of Australia’s own detection capabilities. That raises legitimate questions about why Australia still has no transparent national UAP reporting framework.”

The documents do not reveal the contents of the classified U.S. analysis supplied to Australia. They do not establish that the material concerned extraterrestrial technology, non-human intelligence or recovered craft. Classified information may involve sensitive sensor capabilities, foreign surveillance platforms, collection methods, intelligence sources or military assessments.

However, the existence of the classified exchange itself is significant.

The Five Eyes partnership is one of the world's most established intelligence-sharing relationships. The fact that UAP detection, reporting, collection and data sharing entered that framework demonstrates that unidentified objects are being considered as an intelligence and national-security problem irrespective of their ultimate explanation.

Australian Defence continues to monitor AARO reporting and has stated that it takes threats to aviation safety and national security seriously, while maintaining that existing mechanisms would need to demonstrate insufficient capability before resources were allocated to an Australian equivalent of AARO.

However, the existence of the classified exchange itself is significant.

The Five Eyes partnership is one of the world's most established intelligence-sharing relationships. The fact that UAP detection, reporting, collection and data sharing entered that framework demonstrates that unidentified objects are being considered as an intelligence and national-security problem irrespective of their ultimate explanation.

Australian Defence continues to monitor AARO reporting and has stated that it takes threats to aviation safety and national security seriously, while maintaining that existing mechanisms would need to demonstrate insufficient capability before resources were allocated to an Australian equivalent of AARO.

Sources

U.S. Department of Defense, All-domain Anomaly Resolution Office — FOIA 24-F-1426, FVEY Inaugural UAP Caucus Working Group.

Australian Department of Defence — Senate Estimates and FOI records confirming classified U.S. analysis, Australian capability assessment and attendance at the Five Eyes forum.

Australian Department of Defence — current UAP reporting and Defence Aviation Safety Authority policy material.

Media Contact

UFO to UAP Explained

@me.com

<https://ufotouap.com>

Source : UFO to UAP Explained

See on IssueWire