

Jaydon Chan is Redefining Private Investigation in Hong Kong

Situation difference between Hong Kong and USA Private Investigator

Hong Kong, Hong Kong S.A.R. Sep 14, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Top-notch private investigation helps discover hidden truths that people might have missed otherwise. Jaydon Chan is an ex-police private investigator, providing the best services in Hong Kong. He specializes in matrimonial and infidelity investigations, aiding clients to uncover the truth in sensitive personal matters.

When the scenario involves a commercial fault or infringement case, it is ideal to work with private investigation agencies. This provides clients with a team of investigators, along with the officials of the agency, to discuss investigation plans and findings. However, in cases of personal suspicions, working with an independent PI is the more suitable option, and Jaydon is the best choice in Hong Kong. Working with Jaydon Chan offers clients a one-on-one consultation, where they can share their personal stories without feeling embarrassed or uncomfortable.

Jaydon Chan's independent one-on-one confidential PI service provides complete privacy and confidentiality throughout the entire private investigation process. This allows the private investigator to work securely on the case without exposing the details to a whole team. This makes Jaydon Chan's services ideal for matrimonial investigations, family matters, or personal concerns. With thorough discretion in sensitive cases, Jaydon Chan brings years of professional experience to the table. This ensures each case gets the same priority and the same degree of protection.

In the USA, private investigators are licensed and supervised by the government. The scenario is different in Hong Kong. In China and Hong Kong, private investigators work without any government license or access to legal database information. This increases the chance of independent PIs turning out to be fake and cheating honest people out of their money. However, this can never be the case with Jaydon Chan. His accounts on both Instagram and Facebook have obtained Meta official verification with the blue checkmark badge that ensures his services are honest and effective.

As an independent private investigator, Jaydon Chan provides the same private investigative skills and experience as agencies, but with a more personal touch. He engages clients under the title of a freelance independent private investigator and takes part in every operation. His one-on-one communication ensures no detail is spared and the client receives the exact uncovered information that they were looking for.
