

Koinpark Officially Clarifies It Has No Native Cryptocurrency

Madurai, Tamil Nadu Sep 11, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Koinpark, an Indian cryptocurrency exchange platform, is issuing a direct clarification to its users and the general public: Koinpark does not have a native cryptocurrency coin or token.

The exchange has released this statement to clear up market confusion and ensure complete operational transparency regarding its service model.

Koinpark confirms that the company has not issued, created, or launched an "official token," "native coin," or utility token of any kind.

"Our goal is to keep trading simple, safe, and transparent," said a Koinpark spokesperson. "We want to make it completely clear to our community that Koinpark operates purely as a central exchange for trading established digital assets. We have not launched an exchange-native token, and we do not issue platform-specific digital assets."

Key Information for Users:

- Pure Exchange Model: Koinpark focuses strictly on providing trading infrastructure for standard third-party digital currencies.
- Trust Official Channels: Rely exclusively on information directly published on Koinpark's official website (<https://www.koinpark.com/>) and verified corporate accounts for all platform updates.
- Direct Verification: If you have questions regarding supported assets or platform features, reach out directly to Koinpark customer support.

Koinpark remains focused on delivering a secure, reliable, and user-friendly exchange environment for trading popular digital currencies worldwide.
