for Govee permanent outdoor lights.

Lumeva Lighting today announced its permanent aluminum lighting track for Govee Original, Elite, and Pro systems. The track is built for professional installers and homeowners who want Govee permanent outdoor lights to look built-in by day, with every wire inside the channel instead of clipped to the fascia.

Lumeva track is extruded 6063-T5 aluminum, the same architectural alloy used on exterior trim. Factory punch pitch is matched to the light: about 16.7 inches for Govee Original and Elite, and about 20 inches for Govee Pro. A two-piece snap channel hides the wiring and holds each puck in a downward line. Color is an in-house RAL powder coat, with 200+ RAL Classic shades so the run can match fascia, soffit, or trim.

The company sells the track direct and through contractor trade accounts, with volume pricing for lighting, roofing, AV, and electrical installers. A public comparison of aluminum track against rigid PVC, 3D-printed brackets, and adhesive clips is on the site.

Suggested quote, edit before you send it:

“Govee lights last. The mount is what fails. Plastic clips and tape leave wires showing and come loose in heat and freeze. We built aluminum track so a permanent light install actually stays permanent,” said Josh Ashcraft of Lumeva Lighting.
