

Minds and Machines: The Visionary and The Yesterday Cipher Return for a Second Look at Progress and Tomorrow

Dex System Publishing revisits its ideas-driven pairing with new retailer availability for both titles.

Medfield, United States Sep 2, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Dex System Publishing is giving The Visionary by Preston Ashcroft and The Yesterday Cipher by Morgan Burns a second spotlight this month, this time with expanded retailer availability for readers who missed the first release.

The Visionary continues to draw readers interested in the conversation around Ray Kurzweil and the future of humanity, offering a look at the ideas shaping how we think about longevity, progress, and technological change. It remains one of the more discussion-driving titles in Dex System Publishing's catalog this fall.

The Yesterday Cipher, meanwhile, keeps building an audience among readers drawn to intimate, character-driven storytelling. Morgan Burns's exploration of the future — what we learn, what happens, and what an adventure — has resonated particularly well as a companion read to bigger-picture titles like The Visionary.

This second spotlight adds new format options for both books, giving readers additional ways to access each story ahead of the fall's busiest release season. Full retailer links for both titles are listed below.

Dex System Publishing has found that pairing an ideas-driven title like The Visionary with a character-driven title like The Yesterday Cipher tends to widen the audience for both — readers drawn in by one book's questions about the future often stay for the other's questions about the past. That pattern held true after the pair's first spotlight earlier this month, prompting this second look with expanded availability. Readers who haven't yet picked up either title are encouraged to start with whichever premise speaks to them first; both are designed to stand fully on their own.
