

OnlyGays Launches as First Search Engine Built for LGBTQ+ Content Creators

New directory solves a discovery problem the creator economy has never fully addressed for LGBTQ+ audiences

Atlanta, Georgia Sep 29, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - OnlyGays (onlygays.io), which launched in beta in late August 2026, is built on a simple premise: make it possible to actually search for LGBTQ+ content creators, the same way you'd search for anything else online.

The creator economy — encompassing platforms like OnlyFans, YouTube, Patreon, and similar content services — has grown rapidly in recent years, but discovery has largely remained a matter of algorithms and social media luck. OnlyGays addresses this by building a dedicated, searchable directory: users can filter by platform, category, and interest to find creators, rather than relying on a single platform's internal search or hoping the right post appears in a social feed.

The company, a project of Atlanta-based Mango Digital, LLC, has grown to nearly 400 creator profiles spanning 13 categories — from Adult and Entertainment & Media to Business, Activism, Science & Technology, and Travel & Adventure — and plans to grow the directory as more creators join.

"There wasn't a dedicated discovery tool for this audience, so I built one," said John Rozzo, founder of OnlyGays. "It's the same problem every niche community has had with the creator economy — the content exists, but finding it shouldn't be this hard."

The platform is free for users to browse. Creators can create a listing, with optional paid add-ons seeking expanded visibility within the directory. OnlyGays also offers a plan for influencer and creator agencies that helps them manage multiple profiles.
