Local businesses for local people

Leicester, Leicestershire Sep 22, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Pink Pages Ltd is continuing to support businesses across Leicester and Leicestershire by providing a wider range of practical marketing services designed to help companies connect with local customers.

Known for its established local business directory, Pink Pages Ltd has developed its offering to give businesses additional ways to promote their products and services. Alongside traditional local advertising, companies can now access services including leaflet distribution, search engine optimisation, Google Business Profile support and professional website design in Leicester.

The approach gives businesses the flexibility to choose marketing services that suit their goals, whether they want to increase awareness within specific local communities, strengthen their presence on Google or develop a website that makes it easier for potential customers to learn about their services and make an enquiry.

Print advertising continues to play an important role for many local businesses, particularly those looking to reach households within clearly defined areas. Pink Pages Ltd combines this established approach with digital marketing options, giving businesses the opportunity to build visibility both offline and online.

Its leaflet distribution service also allows companies to place promotional material directly into homes across targeted areas of Leicestershire. This can support seasonal promotions, new service launches, special offers and ongoing local awareness campaigns.

For businesses looking to improve their digital presence, Pink Pages Ltd provides local SEO and Google visibility services aimed at helping potential customers find relevant companies when searching online. Website design services are also available for businesses that need a modern, mobile-friendly online presence capable of clearly presenting their services and generating enquiries.

A spokesperson for Pink Pages Ltd said: "Local businesses have different marketing needs, so relying on one promotional channel is not always the right approach. We want to give businesses practical options that allow them to reach customers locally, whether that is through print, leaflet distribution, Google visibility or their own website."

By bringing a range of local marketing services together, Pink Pages Ltd aims to make it easier for small and established businesses to select promotional methods that complement their objectives and budget.

Businesses across Leicester and Leicestershire interested in exploring local advertising, leaflet distribution, SEO or website design services can contact Pink Pages Ltd to discuss the options available and identify an approach suited to their needs.
