

Poudre Sports Car Brings Exotic Car Expertise Closer to Denver Drivers

The family-run Fort Collins shop is formally serving Denver-area Porsche, BMW, Audi, and Mercedes-Benz owners, offering factory-level diagnostics and specialist engine work without dealer pricing.

Fort Collins, Colorado Sep 8, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Poudre Sports Car has expanded its service area to include the Denver metro region, giving Front Range Porsche and European performance owners access to independent specialist work roughly an hour north of the city.

The shop, located at 5806 S College Ave in Fort Collins, has built its reputation on the kind of work most general repair shops decline and most dealerships subcontract: air-cooled 911 service, IMS and RMS bearing repair, valve adjustments, full engine and transmission rebuilds, and pre-purchase inspections on cars that often change hands sight-unseen. For Denver owners, the expansion means those services are now a scheduled drive rather than a search.

What Denver Owners Get

Poudre Sports Car specializes in four German marques and services European exotics beyond them. Porsche work spans air-cooled and water-cooled platforms, from the 911 through the Cayenne, Macan, and Panamera. BMW service covers M-series tuning, VANOS repair, oil pan reseals, and cooling system overhauls. Audi work includes quattro service, 2.0T timing chain repair, and S and RS performance builds. Mercedes-Benz service covers AMG performance work, air suspension repair, and SBC and electronics diagnostics.

The shop also handles performance tuning, transmission repair and rebuilding, and pre-purchase inspections, a service that has grown as buyers source enthusiast cars from out of state.

A Second-Generation Shop

Poudre Sports Car is run by brothers Zach and Stefan, who took over after the death of their father, the shop's founder. Zach works the bays and is most often found under a Porsche. Stefan handles the front desk and scheduling. Between them and their technicians, the shop carries more than 80 years of combined experience on European performance cars.

Poudre Sports Car is an independent European performance repair shop in Fort Collins, Colorado, specializing in Porsche, BMW, Audi, and Mercedes-Benz, along with European and British exotics. Services include diagnostics, scheduled maintenance, engine and transmission rebuilds, IMS repair, performance tuning, and pre-purchase inspections.
