Florida City, Florida Sep 7, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Video Promotion Club, a video marketing service for independent creators and businesses, has announced September YouTube Visibility Week, a promotional campaign running from September 6th through September 14th, 2026.

During the campaign, customers can receive a 15% price reduction on the company's qualifying YouTube promotion packages. The initiative is intended for musicians, artists, video bloggers, business owners, producers, and other independent creators seeking to introduce their content to relevant audiences.

Video Promotion Club provides paid promotional campaigns developed around a creator's content, intended audience and selected budget. Its real YouTube promotion packages use advertising formats that may include In-Feed Video, In-Stream Video and search-based placements, depending on content eligibility, campaign selection and available advertising inventory.

In-Feed Video placements may display promoted content alongside related videos and within discovery areas on YouTube. In-Stream campaigns can present video advertisements before or during eligible content, while search-based placements may display promoted videos alongside relevant search results.

Available formats, placements and audience-targeting options vary according to the video category, campaign settings, advertising inventory and applicable platform policies. Paid promotion does not guarantee a fixed position in search results, recommendations or individual viewing feeds.

“Our goal with September YouTube Visibility Week is to make structured, platform-compliant promotion more accessible to independent creators,” a Video Promotion Club spokesperson said. “The campaign gives artists, video publishers and small businesses an opportunity to use paid advertising formats based on their content, intended audience and available budget.”

Video Promotion Club does not guarantee specific subscriber numbers, engagement levels, search positions or commercial outcomes. Campaign performance may vary according to content quality, audience response, targeting selections, advertising conditions and other factors. YouTube’s recommendation systems and individual viewer behavior remain outside the company’s control.

Creators considering the campaign can review package details, eligibility requirements and applicable terms on the company’s website before placing an order. The 15% price reduction will apply from September 6th through September 14th, 2026, subject to the published campaign terms.
