

VoxelDraft Makes 3D Voxel Art More Accessible With a Free Browser Based Editor

A lightweight browser workflow for modeling, coloring, animating, recording, and exporting voxel scenes

Saitma-Shi, Saitama Sep 12, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Independent developer huruki.geo today announced the public launch of VoxelDraft, a free browser-based 3D voxel editor designed to make block-style 3D creation approachable for indie game developers, digital artists, educators, and hobbyists.

VoxelDraft lets people open a workspace in their browser and begin shaping 3D models without installing a desktop application first. The editor brings modeling, coloring, lighting, animation, recording, and export into one lightweight workflow. Users can work from starter templates or build from an empty canvas, then save projects locally and share model work through the web.

The editor includes a palette workflow, undo and redo history, project persistence, and touch-friendly controls for mobile devices. For creators who want to move beyond still images, VoxelDraft includes animation tools with keyframes, layers, camera movement, and a timeline. Finished scenes can be recorded as GIFs and exported for use in other creative and game-development workflows, including VOX, OBJ, and GLB formats.

"VoxelDraft is meant to make voxel creation feel as immediate as sketching: open a browser, place blocks, paint, animate, record, and export," said huruki.geo, the independent developer behind

VoxelDraft. "It is for anyone who wants a lightweight 3D block editor without installing a desktop app first."

VoxelDraft is available now at <https://voxeldraft.com>. Basic use is free, and the service is designed to let beginners start experimenting quickly while still providing practical tools for more experienced creators.

About VoxelDraft

VoxelDraft is a browser-based voxel editor created by independent developer huruki.geo in Japan. The project focuses on accessible creative tools, privacy-conscious local workflows, and continuous improvement based on user feedback. Learn more at <https://voxeldraft.com/about/>.

Media Contact

VoxelDraft
legal@voxeldraft.com
<https://voxeldraft.com>

Media Contact

VoxelDraft

@voxeldraft.com

+814861244697

<https://voxeldraft.com>

Source : VoxelDraft

See on IssueWire