KeyBS Pay Opens Early Access to One Global Business Account Built for African Trade

African importers, exporters and SMEs can now request priority access to a single account to collect, hold, convert and pay suppliers worldwide, with verification built in before money moves.

Missoula, Montana Nov 3, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - KeyBS Pay, the cross-border business payments platform operated by KEYBS FINANCE LLC, today opened Early Access to its global business account for African trade. Businesses can now apply for priority access to collect payments, hold multi-currency balances, convert funds and pay suppliers abroad from one platform, ahead of the public launch.

For many African importers, paying an overseas supplier still means a chain of banks, several providers and days of waiting. Fees are deducted along the way, exchange rates are hard to predict and payment status is often unclear until the supplier confirms receipt. KeyBS Pay was built to replace that patchwork with a single account designed around how African businesses actually trade.

What Early Access members get

- Collect. Payments across supported African markets via mobile money, bank transfers, cards, wallets and local methods, plus payment links, checkout and e-invoicing through Africa Collections. Availability varies by market.
- Hold and convert. Named multi-currency business accounts issued in the company's own name, with FX quotes shown before a business commits.
- Pay. Supplier payments and global payouts to more than 190 countries and territories through partner infrastructure, including CNY payments to suppliers in China.
- Verify and control. Supplier and beneficiary checks before funds move, in line with the company's motto: "Verify. Then pay."

"African businesses trade with the whole world, but too often they still pay for it through a maze of banks and intermediaries. We built KeyBS Pay so a business in Accra or Lagos can collect, convert and pay a supplier in Guangzhou or Dubai from one account, with full visibility and checks in place before the money leaves. Early Access lets us open the doors to the first businesses and build the rest with them." — Patrick Mensah, Founder & CEO, KeyBS Pay
