Managed Care Watch Launches Free Public Resource Examining Health Insurers, Public Spending and Access to Care

Tampa, Florida Oct 13, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Managed Care Watch Launches Free Public Resource Examining Health Insurers, Public Spending, and Access to Care

The website brings together source-linked reporting on enforcement actions, contract decisions, executive compensation, and coverage practices.

Managed Care Watch, a new public research website, brings together records on managed care companies serving Medicaid and Medicare members. Available at <https://managedcarewatch.com>, the site offers free company reports, comparison charts, research downloads, and news updates without requiring registration.

The project examines a central public-interest question: How do companies entrusted with healthcare funding perform when people need care?

Initial reports cover Centene, UnitedHealth Group, CVS Health/Aetna, Humana, and Molina Healthcare, including relevant subsidiaries. Research is expanding to Elevance Health, The Cigna Group/Evernorth, Health Care Service Corporation, AmeriHealth Caritas, and CareSource.

Managed Care Watch organizes information across several areas:

- Fines, civil penalties, settlements, repayments, and other financial actions.
- Managed care contract awards, losses, renewals, and procurement disputes.
- Coverage decisions, prior authorization, and documented access-to-care findings.
- Workforce reductions and publicly documented staffing changes.
- Executive compensation, benefits, and leadership turnover.

The website links to government records, regulatory announcements, SEC filings, and company disclosures so readers can examine the underlying evidence. Its historical enforcement research begins in 2020, with coverage continuing to develop.

Managed Care Watch distinguishes investigations and allegations from established findings. It also separates assessed fines from confirmed payments, settlements from penalties, and announced contract selections from final outcomes. Comparison charts identify the scope and limitations of the records collected.

These distinctions matter. A large financial figure may represent a settlement, repayment, or proposed recovery rather than a paid fine. An announced transaction or contract award may still require approval. National quality ratings may provide useful information while leaving individual questions about provider access and treatment coverage unresolved.

The site is intended for members and families, healthcare providers, journalists, policymakers, and others seeking a clearer view of managed care. News updates and a free weekly newsletter complement the company reports.

Journalists and readers are invited to explore the research, follow the original sources, and submit corrections or additional public records for review.
