My Suit Bangkok Publishes a Realistic Turnaround Guide for Travellers Who Need a Suit in a Day or Two

Pratunam tailor My Suit Bangkok sets out what can be finished same day, in 24 to 48 hours, and why two to three days with fittings gives a closer fit.

y Suit Bangkok
ersonal Tailor

Bangkok, Thailand Oct 26, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - My Suit Bangkok, a bespoke and made-to-measure tailor in Pratunam, has published a plain guide to how fast a suit can be made in Bangkok, aimed at travellers who have only a day or two before their flight. The guide says what can realistically be finished at each speed and what cannot, instead of promising a "24-hour suit" for everything.

What can be finished, and when

According to the guide on the shop's website, the timelines work like this. Custom shirts, simple alterations and a rushed suit with a straightforward build can be done the same day. A made-to-measure suit with one quick fitting takes 24 to 48 hours. The shop's recommended timeline is two to three days, which allows one or two proper fittings and the closest fit. Full bespoke, and anything that needs cloth ordered in, cannot be compressed into a departure date.

The shop notes that a suit rushed overnight without a real fitting is a compromise on fit, and that it prefers to say so before the customer commits. If a customer genuinely has only one day, the tailors say they will make it work and be clear about the trade-offs.

What decides the speed

Three things decide how quickly a garment can be finished. The first is complexity: a two-piece suit is faster than a three-piece suit or an overcoat. The second is fabric on hand: choosing from cloth the shop already stocks is faster than a special order. The third is fitting availability: the earlier a customer comes in, the more fitting time there is before the flight.

How travellers can plan it

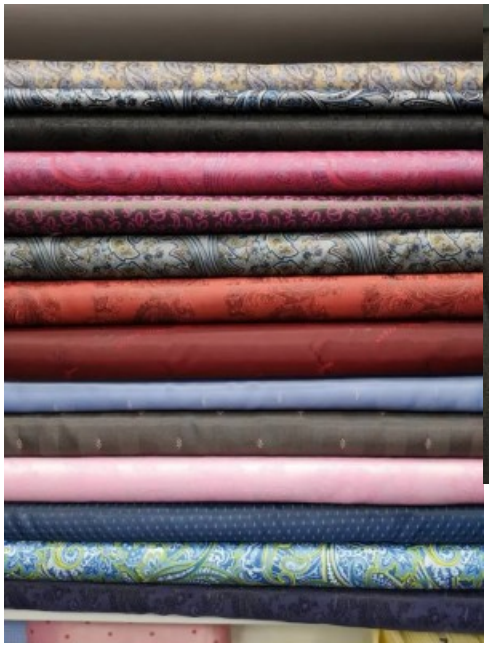

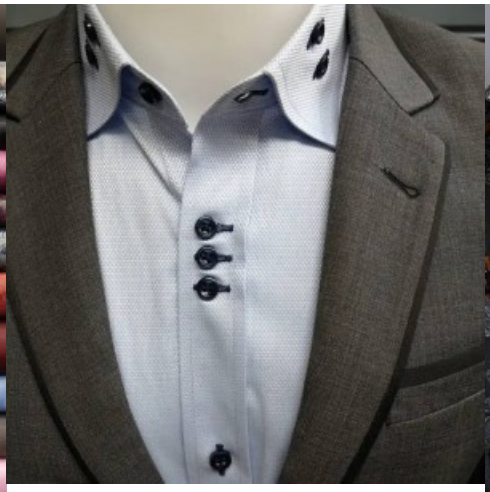

The guide advises coming in on the morning of arrival if possible. The shop measures, cuts straight away and schedules the fitting that evening or the next morning. Customers can also book a fitting slot before they land. One practical tip is to bring the shoes that will be worn with the suit, because trouser length is set from the shoe and a small difference in heel height changes the break of the trouser. The shop keeps customers' measurements on file, so repeat orders can be made from abroad.

About My Suit Bangkok

My Suit Bangkok was founded in November 2017 by Soum Bhusal, known to customers as Sam, and works from the same unit in Platinum Fashion Mall in Pratunam, Bangkok. It makes suits, shirts and formalwear for men and women, and alters clothing. English and Thai are spoken and walk-ins are welcome. The shop is rated 4.9 on Google from more than 229 reviews, as shown on its website on 25 October 2026.

Where and when

My Suit Bangkok is at 419/A Oxford 5, Platinum Fashion Mall, 2nd Floor, Phetchaburi Road, Ratchathewi, Bangkok 10400. It is open every day from 10:00 to 20:00. The nearest BTS stations are Chit Lom and Ratchathewi, and Ratchaprarop is the closest Airport Rail Link stop. Appointments can be booked at https://mysuitsbangkok.com/book-appointment/ or by phone on +66 85 322 4113. The turnaround guide is at https://mysuitsbangkok.com/same-day-suits-bangkok/ and the shop's website is https://mysuitsbangkok.com/.

Media Contact

Soum Bhusal

@gmail.com

+66 85 322 4113

419/A Oxford 5, Platinum Fashion Mall, 2nd Floor, Phetchaburi Road, Ratchathewi, Bangkok 10400

https://mysuitsbangkok.com/

Source : My Suit Bangkok

See on IssueWire